Review Discloses French Fleet Is Assuming "An Increasing Part In War"

ALGIERS, Nov. 9.—Allied ships struck powerful blows against the enemy in western Mediterranean sea battles and performed gallantly in landing assault forces during the last year, but headquarters revealed today that the most impressive job they turned in was hauling of the millions of tons of supplies which kept the armies and air forces in the war.

Since British and American forces landed in Algeria and Morocco November 8, 1942, the Allied naval and merchant fleets including French units, brought 22,526,485 gross tons of shipping into the ports of North Africa and Casablanca, a review issued at Allied force headquarters disclosed.

Perhaps the second most remarkable fact about the year's operations in this theatre is the percentage of losses sustained by Allied shipping through enemy action "inward and outward" and including amphibious and sea battle operations as well as routine convoy duties. It is exactly one point five percent—a figure so microscopic as to be unbelievable.

Enemy merchant shipping sunk by submarines and surface forces total 527,000 tons.

Heavy Enemy Loss

Since the North African landings, Allied submarines in the western Mediterranean have sunk approximately 430,000 tons of enemy shipping and damaged 70,000 additional tons while from the day last of November to October 31, this year, Allied surface vessels sank, destroyed or captured 28 enemy merchant vessels of 60,000 tons; five destroyers; two torpedo boats; one "E" boat; seven landing craft; two motor launches and three transport barges.

Light coastal forces "disposed" of ten merchant vessels of 37,000 tons; five "E" boats; five minesweepers or trawlers; four tank landing craft and two transport barges.

The review disclosed for the first time that the French fleet which is assuming "an increasing part in the war" is now composed of 157 units aggregating approximately 300,000 tons; 3,000 officers and 50,000 seamen. It was also revealed that there are now 149 Italian naval vessels under Allied control and approximately 170,000 tons of Italian merchant shipping.

French Ships Active

Admiral Le Monnier's French navy now has two modern battleships; three older type battleships; one aircraft carrier; nine cruisers; two armed merchant cruisers; seven light cruisers; 14 destroyers; 183 torpedo boats; 20 submarines; 66 corvettes, frigates, sloops; escort vessels and fleet

Jap Position Critical;
May Be Facing New
Disaster, Knox Hints

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Secretary of the Navy Knox asserted today that the Japanese are in a more critical position than they have ever been in the South and Southwest Pacific battle area and intimated that the enemy may be facing another military disaster.

"A conservative survey permits us to say that the Japanese are in a more critical position than they have ever been in that area," Knox said. "Now it is no longer a case of holding their positions, but one of actual survival in the South and Southwest Pacific battle zones."

In his weekly news conference Knox cited as one of the highlights of action during the last ten days the destruction or crippling of six heavy Japanese cruisers in the attack on Rabaul by American carrier-based navy planes and later by army aircraft.

"To lose the use of six heavy cruisers is to the Japs nothing short of disaster," Knox said.

"If they don't look out they will find themselves short of these very vital heavy craft when they want to go to sea with their entire fleet," the secretary added.

Knox pointed out that the entire offensive in the South and Southwest Pacific was under the command of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, but that Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., was cooperating with him in every possible way.

Reviews Situation

In a review of the military and naval situation, Knox said that the Japanese in the last ten days had suffered "several important military defeats."

The secretary enumerated them as follows:

1. The landing on Bougainville by American marines who have established a beach head and cleaned up the area in the vicinity they invaded.

2. The recent night naval battle in which American warships sank one Japanese cruiser and four destroyers and damaged two cruisers and two destroyers without the loss of a single American vessel.

3. The surprise attack on Rabaul first by carrier based planes and then by U. S. Army heavy bombers which "apparently caught the Japanese by surprise."

The carrier-based operation, Knox said, was carried out by dive and torpedo bombers supported by Helicat fighter planes.

Cruisers Blasted

As the first wave went in, Knox said, six heavy enemy cruisers were blasted. Five were hit by torpedoes and bombs, one of which blew up and the sixth was merely torpedoed.

In addition, one light cruiser was torpedoed and another hit by bombs.

Later the planes attacked a large destroyer force, torpedoing two and strafing 15 or more.

During the operation, 37 enemy planes were destroyed or damaged. U. S. losses were listed by Knox as one bomber shot down, five Hellcats and two Avengers missing and two Avengers lost by landing on the water following the action.

The secretary said there was no truth to exorbitant Japanese claims that they have sunk a large number of American vessels in recent operations.

Knox said that the Japanese were avoiding the use of large transport and cargo ships in their

WORKER POPS
FOREMAN TO GET
JOB RELEASE

HAMMOND, Ind., Nov. 9.—Thomas Fayette, a superintendent at the Indiana Harbor Belt Line Railroad shops, nursed a sore jaw today, inflicted, he said, by an employee he suspected of swinging the haymaker just so he would be fired and could get a better job.

The slugger was John Burrell, 35, an electrician who was denied a release from his job by the Manpower Commission on his plea that his wife's health demanded a different climate. The testimony in court was that he thereupon staged a one-man sit-down strike and was suspended for five days by Fayette—but not fired.

Fayette told the court he then was struck on the jaw by Burrell. Burrell was fined $15, but he has not returned to work since the incident. Under WMC regulations he must be idle 60 days before obtaining another job in an essential industry.

EXPENSIVE EXPERIMENT

U. S. May Contribute Total
Of $1,500,000,000 Yearly
To Undertaking

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Representatives of 44 United and Associated Nations will sign at the White House today an American agreement establishing the greatest international governmental relief organization the world has ever known.

The agreement will bring into existence the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration, the purpose of which is to plan and direct the administration of relief to the war-wrecked areas of the world.

The White House ceremony will mark the greatest gathering of diplomats ever witnessed in Washington for the signing of a single international agreement.

Sponsored by the American administration, this new international organization is expected to represent the most costly experiment in history to avert the economic chaos which usually follows a great war.

One proposal is afoot to have the United States and other leading allied powers contribute one percent of their national income to finance the relief work of the organization. This would mean a contribution of approximately $1,500,000,000 by the American government annually.

Francis P. Sayre, American representative-designate on the new administration, admitted to the senate foreign relations committee yesterday that such an idea has been proposed. Furthermore, it is expected to be discussed at the meeting of the administration's council which convenes in Atlantic City tomorrow.

Up To Congress

Congress, however, must approve the financial contributions made by this government. It is considered highly questionable whether any such proposal would meet with congressional approval.

The American relief planners originally intended to ask congress for $500,000,000 as this country's

EXTORTION BY UNION LEADERS
AIRED IN TRIAL

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Testimony at the trial of eight union leaders accused of extorting a million dollars from the movie industry, which continued today, disclosed that at one time the fee for permitting discharge of a projector operator was $1,060.

James E. Costen, western representative of Warner Brothers, said that was the fee exacted by Tommy Maloy, head of the Chicago Motion Picture Operators Union, until he was slain in 1935.

Costen said when Willie Bioff, now serving an extortion term, came into power at about the same time Warners was obliged to pay him $8,500 to end a strike of union projectionists. He also disclosed that Bioff told union members their demand for a 20 percent pay increase could not be granted —after Bioff was put on the Warner payroll for a year at $11,000.

YANKEES BLAST
HUN RADIO BASEWeather Station Found
On Greenland Coast
And Erased

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The Navy disclosed today that American Army Air Force planes backed up by coast guard cutters have destroyed another German radio and weather base off the coast of Greenland and captured two Nazi prisoners.

"The purpose of the German Greenland expedition is believed to have been to provide regular weather information for the German air forces," the Navy said.

The base, on an island off the coast of Greenland, was bombed by army planes under the command of Col. Bernt Balchen, but it was not until months later that coast guard cutters reached the area and discovered that the German station had been virtually wiped out.

Participating in the operation was the coast guard cutter Northland which in September, 1941, captured a trawler and destroyed a German radio station which the vessel's party had established on Greenland.

The German base off Greenland was discovered early this year by the U. S. army sledge patrol, a force of Danish hunters who constantly patrol the uninhabited coast.

"Small, but of solid construction, indicating a plan to remain permanently, the base included a radio station, power house, emergency generator and radio transmitter separately located, defensive machine emplacements and food caches," the navy said.

A small supply ship also was found anchored in the harbor and the vessel had telephone communication with all principal shore points.

"The sledge patrol which discovered the base was attacked by the Germans, but managed to report its discovery," the Navy said. "Two (Continued on Page Two)

FIRE IMPORTED

TO JERSEY F. D.

LINDEN, N. J., Nov. 9.—Linden firemen were still talking today about how they put out a fire "imported" by the Pennsylvania railroad.

After being notified that the fire would be "delivered" within five minutes, fire apparatus hurried to the Wood avenue station where they found a New York-Chicago express train already halted, with a smoking Pullman car uncoupled.

The blaze, which began as the train approached the town, was confined to a compartment housing air-conditioning equipment.

5,000 STRIKING
MINERS FACE
PUNITIVE ACTION

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 9.—More than 5,000 coal miners still out on strike in western and central Pennsylvania today faced possible punitive action under Smith-Connelly act.

The government seized control of the pits seven days ago. The law forbids concerted work stoppages at government work enterprises except in cases where a 30-day notice of intention to strike is filed.

A fine of $5,000 and a year in prison are possible penalties to anyone encouraging an illegal walkout. Any action was expected to develop in Washington, since Secretary Ickes is nominal operator of the mines for the government.

Meanwhile, more than 105,000 miners had returned to work in the area. Union officials said they expected the stayouts to return to their jobs soon.

NANCY CALLED AS WITNESS FOR ACCUSED COUNT

NASSAU, Nov. 9.—The final stages of the trial of Count Alfred De Marigny for the bludgeon-torch murder of his millionaire father-in-law, Sir Harry Oakes, were expected to be reached today.

The final witness to be called by the handsome Frenchman's defense counsel will be his pretty 19-year-old bride, Nancy Oakes De Marigny, who has steadfastly proclaimed her husband guiltless in the mysterious death of her father.

Other witnesses to be summoned before the defense rests and sends the count's fate to the hands of the 12 male jurors will include servants in the De Marigny home and Leonard E. Keller, Chicago, Ill., fingerprint expert.

A blow to the count's case came when Marquis Georges De Visdelou-Guibeaubeau, De Marigny's closest friend, was badly shaken in his testimony by crown counsel.

In return defense attorneys shook the prosecution's most damaging evidence through the testimony of Maurice B. O'Neill, supervisor of the bureau of identification of New Orleans, La. O'Neill stated unequivocally that exhibit J, the alleged print of the little finger of De Marigny's right hand, did not come from the ornamental Chinese screen which was found in the murdered baronet's bedroom.

In Minnesota—Nebraska
Transportation Hit

By International News Service
Freezing weather and blizzards, striking the Midwest ahead of schedule, left toll of eight dead today.

Five of the dead were in Minnesota, two in Iowa and one in Wisconsin.

These states, along with Nebraska and North and South Dakota, were hardest hit by winter weather's early advent.

In some areas highways were blocked by snowdrifts, bus and train schedules were disrupted, trolley cars were stalled, and some schools were closed.

Duluth, Minn., reported 14 inches of snow, Aberdeen, S. D., a foot, and unofficial reports said a foot and a half of snow fell at Spirit Lake, Ia.

The snow storm raged three days at Sioux City, Ia., where traffic was badly disrupted and plows for some time were unable to clear the trolley tracks.

The Iowa state highway engineer's office was making valiant efforts to keep main highways open, but frequently the snow was blown in drifts back onto the road soon after the plows passed by.

Bus service temporarily was canceled on some routes in Iowa and a number of the rural schools closed until travel difficulties eased. Trains ran several hours late in some sections.

Snow was seven to 10 inches deep in eastern and northeastern Nebraska where many schools were closed. Fifty men and women and 15 children, including five babies, were marooned many hours at a filling station in eastern Nebraska. (Continued on Page Two)

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—So far as court officials were able to recall today this alibi of John Atkinson, 23, for not possessing a draft registration card is absolutely new. John told U. S. Commissioner Edwin K. Walker:

"You see, your honor, I was a trapper at Fargo, N. D., trapping mink, beaver and so on. Well, on my last round, I found a skunk in one of my traps. I always grab skunks by the front legs, but this one swung around on me and I got him by the hind legs. And that isn't all I got, your honor."

"I had to burn my clothes, and my draft card was in my pants. I couldn't have lived with that draft card, anyway."

Atkinson was released on bond with his unique story was being investigated.

BULLETIN

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Germany's present staggering defeat at the hands of Soviet Russia "may well prove mortal," Prime Minister Winston Churchill said today.

The prime minister spoke as honor guest at the traditional lord mayor's luncheon at the mansion house following the new lord mayor's inauguration.

"In 1940," Churchill said, "I repeated to the nations overrun by the Nazis our British pledge never to abandon this struggle until every one of them is liberated."

"I see no reason to modify this statement today."

"In 1941 I gave a solemn warning to the Japanese that if they went to war with the United States we should immediately declare war on them."

"Well, we got on with that. In 1942," Churchill continued, "I said I didn't consider it any part of my duty to liquidate the British empire. I hold the same opinion today."

With regard to his prediction that the Nazi disasters in Russia might possibly prove the end of Hitlerism and German military power, the prime minister said:

"The Soviet armies have inflicted a deep and dire injury to the whole life and structure of the whole German military power and the monstrous juggernaut of German might."

"Might and tyranny have been beaten, broken, outfought and outmaneuvered by Russian valor, generalship and science, and they have been beaten to an extent which may well prove mortal."

"It must never be forgotten that there was nothing in the whole world nor could there have been created in several years any military organization which could have given the blow which Russia has given, or survived the losses that Russia has borne."

By International News Service
Advances along practically the whole Allied battle line in Italy were reported today in the official communiques issued in Algiers.

The Anglo-Canadian Eighth Army moved five miles forward along the Adriatic coast to reach the vicinity of the Sangro river, and in the western sector the Fifth Army scored limited advances despite heavy rains which turned the ground into a veritable sea of sticky mud.

The Eighth advanced along its entire front, capturing Torino and Paglieta near the coast and Torbruna, 24 miles inland. On the south end of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's battline his forces occupied Pescocostanzo.

American units on the right flank of the Fifth seized Fornelli while on Lieut. Gen. Mark Clark's left flank it appeared the capture of Gaeta was imminent. The Nazi occupants of the formidable fortress at Gaeta were said by the German-controlled Rome radio already to be carrying out systematic demolitions, and evacuation was imminent.

Railway Crippled
Radio Roma also admitted American Flying Fortresses had crippled the main railway running up the west coast of Italy. The broadcast said motor buses would be employed "to improve" transport service between Rome and the north.

Heavy Enemy Loss

Since the North African landings, Allied submarines in the western Mediterranean have sunk approximately 430,000 tons of enemy shipping and damaged 70,000 additional tons while from the day last of November to October 31, this year, Allied surface vessels sank, destroyed or captured 28 enemy merchant vessels of 60,000 tons; five destroyers; two torpedo boats; one "E" boat; seven landing craft; two motor launches and three transport barges.

Light coastal forces "disposed" of ten merchant vessels of 37,000 tons; five "E" boats; five minesweepers or trawlers; four tank landing craft and two transport barges.

The review disclosed for the first time that the French fleet which is assuming "an increasing part in the war" is now composed of 157 units aggregating approximately 300,000 tons; 3,000 officers and 50,000 seamen. It was also revealed that there are now 149 Italian naval vessels under Allied control and approximately 170,000 tons of Italian merchant shipping.

FIRE IMPORTED AND DELIVERED TO JERSEY F. D.

LINDEN, N. J., Nov. 9.—Linden firemen were still talking today about how they put out a fire "imported" by the Pennsylvania railroad.

After being notified that the fire would be "delivered" within five minutes, fire apparatus hurried to the Wood avenue station where they found a New York Chicago express train already halted, with a smoking Pullman car uncoupled.

The blaze, which began as the train approached the town, was confined to a compartment housing air-conditioning equipment.

5,000 STRIKING MINERS FACE PUNITIVE ACTION

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 9.—More than 5,000 coal miners still out on strike in western and central Pennsylvania today faced possible punitive action under Smith-Connally act.

The government seized control of the pits seven days ago. The law forbids concerted work stoppages at government war enterprises except in cases where a 30-day notice of intention to strike is filed.

A fine of $5,000 and a year in prison are possible penalties to anyone encouraging an illegal walkout. Any action was expected to develop in Washington, since Secretary Ickes is nominal operator of the mines for the government.

Meanwhile, more than 105,000 miners had returned to work in the area. Union officials said they expected the stayouts to return to their jobs soon.

NANCY CALLED AS WITNESS FOR ACCUSED COUNT

NASSAU, Nov. 9.—The final stages of the trial of Count Alfred De Marigny for the bludgeon-torch murder of his millionaire father-in-law, Sir Harry Oakes, were expected to be reached today.

The final witness to be called by the handsome Frenchman's defense counsel will be his pretty 19-year-old bride, Nancy Oakes De Marigny, who has steadfastly proclaimed her husband guiltless in the mysterious death of her father.

Other witnesses to be summoned before the defense rests and sends the count's fate to the hands of the 12 male jurors will include servants in the De Marigny home and Leonard E. Keller, Chicago, Ill., fingerprint expert.

A blow to the count's case came when Marquis Georges De Visdelou-Guimbeau, De Marigny's closest friend, was badly shaken in his testimony by crown counsel.

In return defense attorneys shook the prosecution's most damaging evidence through the testimony of Maurice B. O'Neill, supervisor of the bureau of identification of New Orleans, La. O'Neill stated unequivocally that exhibit B, the alleged print of the little finger of De Marigny's right hand, did not come from the ornamental Chinese screen which was found in the murdered baronet's bedroom.

14 Inches Of Snow Fall In Minnesota—Nebraska Transportation Hit

By International News Service
Freezing weather and blizzards, striking the Midwest ahead of schedule, left toll of eight dead today.

Five of the dead were in Minnesota, two in Iowa and one in Wisconsin.

These states, along with Nebraska and North and South Dakota, were hardest hit by winter weather's early advent.

In some areas highways were blocked by snowdrifts, bus and train schedules were disrupted, trolley cars were stalled, and some schools were closed.

Duluth, Minn., reported 14 inches of snow, Aberdeen, S. D., a foot, and unofficial reports said a foot and a half of snow fell at Spirit Lake, Ia.

The snow storm raged three days at Sioux City, Ia., where traffic was badly disrupted and plows for some time were unable to clear the trolley tracks.

The Iowa state highway engineer's office was making valiant efforts to keep main highways open, but frequently the snow was blown in drifts back onto the road soon after the plows passed by.

Bus service temporarily was canceled on some routes in Iowa, and a number of the rural schools closed until travel difficulties eased. Trains ran several hours late in some sections.

Snow was seven to 10 inches deep in eastern and northeastern Nebraska where many schools were closed. Fifty men and women and 15 children, including five babies, were marooned many hours at a filling station in eastern Nebraska. (Continued on Page Two)

LACKS DRAFT CARD, BUT NOT UNIQUE ALIBI

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—So far as court officials were able to recall today this alibi of John Atkinson, 23, for not possessing a draft registration card is absolutely new. John told U. S. Commissioner Edwin K. Walker:

"You see, your honor, I was a trapper at Fargo, N. D. trapping mink, beaver and so on. Well, on my last round, I found a skunk in one of my traps. I always grab skunks by the front legs, but this one swung around on me and I got him by the hind legs. And that isn't all I got, your honor."

"I had to burn my clothes, and my draft card was in my pants. I couldn't have lived with that draft card, anyway."

Atkinson was released on bond while his unique story was being investigated.

American Units In Italy Seize Fornelli And Threaten Gaeta

BULLETIN

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Germany's present staggering defeat at the hands of Soviet Russia "may well prove mortal," Prime Minister Winston Churchill said today.

The prime minister spoke as honor guest at the traditional lord mayor's luncheon at the mansion house following the new lord mayor's inauguration. "In 1940," Churchill said, "I repeated to the nations overrun by the Nazis our British pledge never to abandon this struggle until every one of them is liberated."

"I see no reason to modify this statement today."

"In 1941 I gave a solemn warning to the Japanese that if they went to war with the United States we should immediately declare war on them."

"Well, we got on with that. 'In 1942,' Churchill continued, 'I said I didn't consider it any part of my duty to liquidate the British empire. I hold the same opinion today.'"

With regard to his prediction that the Nazi disasters in Russia might possibly prove the end of Hitlerism and German military power, the prime minister said:

"The Soviet armies have inflicted a deep and dire injury to the whole life and structure of the whole German military power and the monstrous juggernaut of German might."

"Might and tyranny have been beaten, broken, outfought and outmaneuvered by Russian valor, generalship and science, and they have been beaten to an extent which may well prove mortal."

"It must never be forgotten that there was nothing in the whole world nor could there have been created in several years any military organization which could have given the blow which Russia has given, or survived the losses that Russia has borne."

By International News Service

Advances along practically the whole Allied battleline in Italy were reported today in the official communique issued in Algiers.

The Anglo-Canadian Eighth Army moved five miles forward along the Adriatic coast to reach the vicinity of the Sangro river, and in the western sector the Fifth Army scored limited advances despite heavy rains which turned the ground into a veritable sea of sticky mud.

The Eighth advanced along its entire front, capturing Torino and Paglieta near the coast and Torrebruna, 24 miles inland. On the south end of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's battleline his forces occupied Pescocostanzo.

American units on the right flank of the Fifth seized Fornelli while on Lieut. Gen. Mark Clark's left flank it appeared the capture of Gaeta was imminent. The Nazi occupants of the formidable fortress at Gaeta were said by the German-controlled Rome radio already to be carrying out systematic demolitions, and evacuation was imminent.

Railway Crippled

Radio Roma also admitted American Flying Fortresses had crippled the main railway running up the west coast of Italy. The broadcast said motor buses would be employed "to improve" transport service between Rome and the north.

RAF Mosquito bombers last night continued plastering targets in western Germany. The specific targets had not yet been disclosed. But some conception of the pounding being delivered by Allied airmen to Germany and Nazi-occupied Europe can be gained from the revelation by the British all control board that Anglo-American (Continued on Page Two)

The Moscow communique told of the annihilation of more than 15,000 Nazi officers and men and the capture of 6,200 others during the fierce battle which ended in the Soviet capture of Kiev, capital of the Ukraine. This bloody battle lasted less than four days, Moscow said, from November 3 to the early morning hours of November 6, when the Nazi host fled so precipitately they left their thousands of dead lying unburied on the battlefield. Figures of Russian booty captured at Kiev are still incomplete, but the amounts already counted are of astronomical proportions.

In the Ukraine the Red army today has hammered its way toward the Romanian frontier at least 55 miles beyond Kiev. Further north other Russian forces operating out of Nevel were slashing toward the Latvian and Lithuanian borders in a determined effort to cut off the hundreds of thousands of Hitler's forces facing the Leningrad line.

As the Nazis fled in retreat one Red Army spearhead pursued them 55 miles down the highway leading southwest from Kiev. At the same time other Russian units cleared the Dnieper river banks below Kiev of German forces. The Red Army column surging southward from the Ukrainian capital have practically affected a junction with troops holding the Pereyaslav bridgehead.

Berlin reports spoke of the Red Army thrust from Nevel as a "tremendous new offensive," the Swiss reports said the German high command has ordered a general retreat from the Leningrad sector to Estonia to escape the danger of entrapment by the oncoming Russian hordes.

In view of the critical situation confronting Hitler's legions in Russia and Italy, the gloom of the German reichsfuehrer's Munich beerhall speech yesterday is quite understandable.

DEATH PENALTY DEMANDED FOR CHARLES FINCH

Trial of Charles Finch, alias Donald Eugene Carson, for first degree murder of Joseph Schoenfeld, 69-year-old Indiana farmer, is continuing in Connersville, Ind., with the state demanding the death penalty. Finch was returned to Indiana from Pickaway county jail where he was held for failure to provide.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff, whose investigation led to the unmasking of Finch as a murder suspect, said that Connersville authorities told him that evidence is continuing to pile up, several witnesses pointing to Finch as the man who killed the aged farmer, for whom he had worked, with a railroad spike.

The sheriff said that Indiana police told him that Finch's fifth wife had been found in southern Indiana, and he added that so far as Indiana authorities have been able to determine he had never obtained a divorce from any of them. He left another wife in Williamsport where he had lived for several years as a farm laborer.

Finch was taken to Indiana after a check of his fingerprints disclosed him to be the murder suspect. He had disappeared from the Connersville district the day the aged farmer was killed.

With near blizzard weather predicted for northern Minnesota today, residents feared the storm might become as severe as the 1940 Armistice Day blizzard in which 131 persons lost their lives and temperatures dropped to 6 below zero.

Bus and airline travel there was at a standstill and trains were operating behind schedule. Rural schools all over the state were closed. Grade schools in St. Paul and Minneapolis were open only a half day yesterday.

Many hunters were marooned by the storm. Telephone and telegraph lines were down and for some time radio communication was the only system available at some points.

The Nazis then sent a force against a small hunting and weather station well above the Arctic circle which was manned only by a handful of Danes armed with hunting rifles and pistols. As the Germans attacked with machine guns in the darkness, most of the Danes escaped.

The Nazi party was known as the German Greenland expedition. The lieutenant in command made the mistake of soliciting one of his Danish prisoners to act as his guide in exploration of the barren east coast of Greenland.

"The Dane, at the first opportunity, overpowered the German officer and despite the fact it entailed a 40 day trip by sledge, took him as a prisoner and delivered him into U. S. custody," the Navy added.

Underprivileged Boy Championed Before Local Kiwanis Session

The case of the underprivileged boy was pleaded in an interesting manner Monday evening at the Circleville Kiwanis club meeting when Gerald Stahly, director of education at the Boys' Industrial school, near Lancaster, urged that every youngster who is a problem in a community be given every opportunity to make good before he is sent to the state school.

"When your community, or any other, sends a boy to us," the B. I. S. official declared, "we know that the community has given up on him. We do not know that the community has done everything that it can for him, though."

The educator, former superintendent of schools in Crawford county, warned Kiwanians that once a boy has served a term in the industrial school he never lives down the stigma of having been an inmate there. "No matter what we might do to straighten out the youth," the speaker said, "there is not one of you who would permit your daughter to have a date with a boy you knew had been serving time at the B. I. S."

900 Boys In School

Mr. Stahly told Kiwanians that there are about 900 boys in the Fairfield county institution and that the population is growing almost daily. He declared that a 23 percent increase was noted in commitments in 1942 and that so far this year the number of boys entering the B. I. S. is 25 percent above the 1942 figures.

The speaker pointed to poor conditions in Children's Homes in some counties, the result of which is more boys sent to the B. I. S. He said that Children's Home systems in several southern Ohio counties are "almost medieval."

Never Had Chance

Kiwanians were told that six out of every 10 boys taken to the B. I. S. are from broken homes, adding "most of these youngsters have never had a chance."

The problem of placing B. I. S. boys in satisfactory homes after they have finished their schooling at the industrial school and after B. I. S. officials have done everything they can for them is a great one, Mr. Stahly said. He urged Kiwanians to look over the local community in an effort to find homes for some of the boys who are ready to leave the B. I. S.

The speaker discussed the routine at B. I. S., the educational and recreational programs worked out, and added that during the last month $125,000 in National Youth Administration equipment has been obtained. "We have been an industrial school in name only up to now," the educator said, "but as soon as we get this NYA equipment installed we will really become an industrial school."

Visiting Kiwanians

Mr. Stahly was accompanied to Circleville by Ernest Beckwith, president of the Lancaster club; Harry Herdman, president-elect; O. L. Thomas, supervisor of cottages at the B. I. S., and Ray Jewell, also members of the Lancaster club.

Leslie D. May of the Circleville Rotary club was also present to urge Kiwanians to attend the Institute of International Understanding opening Thursday evening at the high school social room. Mr. May said that four outstanding programs are being offered.

Harold Limback, Kiwanis president, said that a recreation committee had been appointed to work out a winter basketball project for boys of sixth, seventh and eighth grades. Dan McClain, Kenneth Robbins and Virgil Cress comprise the Kiwanis committee working with Coaches Roy Black and Tom Armstrong. While details for the league have not yet been worked out, it is planned to operate it through Sunday schools with the high school gymnasium being used for games.

TWO SEEK DIVORCE

Two more divorce petitions went into the Pickaway county common pleas court record Monday when Anna Christopher Spurlin of Scioto township filed suit against Floyd Spurlin and Milo K. Beavers, of Orient RFD, brought action against Katherine Louise Beavers. Both suits charge neglect of duty. The Spurlins were married in March, 1943, and Mr. and Mrs. Beavers in November, 1940. The latter couple has two children.

Some French units have been fighting with the Allies since the outbreak of the war in 1939, the review pointed out. The "Fusiliers Marins" corresponding to the United States marines, fought gallantly at Bir-Hakeim. French submarines have been operating with the British for months. During the liberation of Corsica, the cruisers Montcalm and Jeanne D'Arc; the light cruisers Le Fantasque and Le Terrible; the destroyers L'Alcyon, Fortune, Basque and Tempete and the submarines Casablanca, La Perle and Arethuse, all played major parts.

Impressive Entries

Other impressive entries in the shipping section of the review included:

1—Total tons of cargo landed in ports of North Africa, including Casablanca up to the middle of October (as distinguished from gross tonnage entering ports)—9,440,000 tons of which an estimated 4,072,000 dead weight tons were represented by petrol, petroleum products, fuel and lubricating oils, kerosene and paraffin.

2—Gross tonnage of merchant shipping passing eastward through the Sicilian channel between the final victory in Tunisia on November 8—2,419,322 tons.

3—In one port alone, approximately 650 ocean-going Allied ships were discharged or loaded during the year.

4—At the same port, about 130 troop transports were embarked or disembarked and 300 coasters were laden or discharged.

5—Stores of sorts loaded at the port during the year totalled 400,000 tons.

6—From August 29 to November 2, 203,500 tons of general cargo were landed at Palermo in Sicily.

SCHOOL DELEGATES TO ATTEND STATE SESSION

Pickaway county schools are preparing to name delegates and alternates to the Ohio Education association to be held December 28 and 29 in Columbus.

George D. McDowell, superintendent, said that letters were put into the mail Tuesday to each school asking that each make one nomination for the delegate and alternate role.

The county is entitled to two delegates and two alternates.

After nominations have been made, ballots will be sent to all members of the O. E. A., the voting to decide the four who will represent the county.

15 Pre-Pearl Harbor Fathers Accepted For Service Against Axis

Thirty-one Pickaway county men, including 15 pre-Pearl Harbor fathers, have been accepted by Army, Navy and Marine Corps out of the county's November draft contingent. Fifty local men were sent to the induction center last Thursday, the report to local selective service officials being delayed until Tuesday. Twenty-eight pre-Pearl Harbor dads were included in the group sent to the Columbus center.

Eighteen other men were rejected for physical reasons, while one was being held over for further physical. In addition, three men were transferred to the local board from distant draft boards, two of these being accepted.

Of the 31 local men taken for the various services, 19 will go to the army at the end of 21-day leaves, 11 will report to the navy Thursday and Friday and one will go to the marines.

The contingent was the first sent to an induction center containing pre-Pearl Harbor dads. Many men of this category will go to Columbus with the December contingent which numbers just a few men short of the November group. Notices for this contingent will not be put into the mails for probably the next two weeks.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff, whose investigation led to the unmasking of Finch as a murder suspect, said that Connersville authorities told him that evidence is continuing to pile up, several witnesses pointing to Finch as the man who killed the aged farmer, for whom he had worked, with a railroad spike.

The sheriff said that Indiana police told him that Finch's fifth wife had been found in southern Indiana, and he added that so far as Indiana authorities have been able to determine he had never obtained a divorce from any of them. He left another wife in Williamsport where he had lived for several years as a farm laborer.

Finch was taken to Indiana after a check of his fingerprints disclosed him to be the murder suspect. He had disappeared from the Connersville district the day the aged farmer was killed.

attempts to reinforce their Rabaul and Solomon garrisons. The secretary added that during the last ten days 100 Japanese barges and small freighters had been sunk, damaged or strafed by Allied forces.

In action on Choiseul Island in the Northern Solomons, Knox said that 143 Japanese dead were counted and 180 tons of enemy supplies and equipment destroyed against the loss of nine American dead and 16 wounded.

The secretary declined to make any prediction on whether the Japanese would continue to pour reinforcements into the South and Southwest Pacific.

contribution to get the new organization started. This figure may now be scaled down somewhat to avoid a serious congressional controversy. In any event the amount which each nation shall be asked to contribute will be decided at the council meeting.

While the American plan calls for the expenditure of vast sums of money in the form of food, clothing and other supplies, the government's relief planners believe it will be a sound investment against economic and political chaos in the world after this war. Former Governor Herbert H. Lehman of New York, who is slated to be named director general of the administration, has publicly expressed the conviction that the plan will help win both the war and the peace.

With near blizzard weather predicted for northern Minnesota today, residents feared the storm might become as severe as the 1940 Armistice Day blizzard in which 131 persons lost their lives and temperatures dropped to 6 below zero.

Bus and airline travel there was at a standstill and trains were operating behind schedule. Rural schools all over the state were closed. Grade schools in St. Paul and Minneapolis were open only a half day yesterday.

Many hunters were marooned by the storm. Telephone and telegraph lines were down and for some time radio communication was the only system available at some points.

Light snows were reported in Wisconsin and Missouri. Chicago had light flurries and more were forecast for today.

The Nazis then sent a force against a small hunting and weather station well above the Arctic circle which was manned only by a handful of Danes armed with hunting rifles and pistols. As the Germans attacked with machine guns in the darkness, most of the Danes escaped.

The Nazi party was known as the German Greenland expedition. The lieutenant in command made the mistake of soliciting one of his Danish prisoners to act as his guide in exploration of the barren east coast of Greenland.

"The Dane, at the first opportunity, overpowered the German officer and despite the fact it entailed a 40 day trip by sled, took him as a prisoner and delivered him into U. S. custody," the Navy added.

In May army air men under Balchen bombed the German installation and the accuracy of the attacks was verified when U. S. coast guard cutters reached the base some time later to complete its destruction.

Underprivileged Boy Championed Before Local Kiwanis Session

The case of the underprivileged boy was pleaded in an interesting manner Monday evening at the Circleville Kiwanis club meeting when Gerald Stahly, director of education at the Boys' Industrial school, near Lancaster, urged that every youngster who is a problem in a community be given every opportunity to make good before he is sent to the state school.

"When your community, or any other, sends a boy to us," the B. I. S. official declared, "we know that the community has given up on him. We do not know that the community has done everything that it can for him, though."

The educator, former superintendent of schools in Crawford county, warned Kiwanians that once a boy has served a term in the industrial school he never lives down the stigma of having been an inmate there. "No matter what we might do to straighten out the youth," the speaker said, "there is not one of you who would permit your daughter to have a date with a boy you knew had been serving time at the B. I. S."

900 Boys In School

Mr. Stahly told Kiwanians that there are about 900 boys in the Fairfield county institution and that the population is growing almost daily. He declared that a 23 percent increase was noted in commitments in 1942 and that so far this year the number of boys entering the B. I. S. is 25 percent above the 1942 figures.

The speaker pointed to poor conditions in Children's Homes in some counties, the result of which is more boys sent to the B. I. S. He said that Children's Home systems in several southern Ohio counties are "almost medieval."

Never Had Chance

Kiwanians were told that six out of every 10 boys taken to the B. I. S. are from broken homes, adding "most of these youngsters have never had a chance."

The problem of placing B. I. S. boys in satisfactory homes after they have finished their schooling at the industrial school and after B. I. S. officials have done everything they can for them is a great one, Mr. Stahly said. He urged Kiwanians to look over the local community in an effort to find homes for some of the boys who are ready to leave the B. I. S.

The speaker discussed the routine at B. I. S., the educational and recreational programs worked out, and added that during the last month $125,000 in National Youth Administration equipment has been obtained. "We have been an industrial school in name only up to now," the educator said, "but as soon as we get this NYA equipment installed we will really become an industrial school."

Visiting Kiwanians

Mr. Stahly was accompanied to Circleville by Ernest Beckwith, president of the Lancaster club; Harry Herdman, president-elect; O. L. Thomas, supervisor of cottages at the B. I. S., and Ray Jewell, also members of the Lancaster club.

Leslie D. May of the Circleville Rotary club was also present to urge Kiwanians to attend the Institute of International Understanding opening Thursday evening at the high school social room. Mr. May said that four outstanding programs are being offered.

Harold Limback, Kiwanis president, said that a recreation committee had been appointed to work out a winter basketball project for boys of sixth, seventh and eighth grades. Dan McClain, Kenneth Robbins and Virgil Cress comprise the Kiwanis committee working with Coaches Roy Black and Tom Armstrong. While details for the league have not yet been worked out, it is planned to operate it through Sunday schools with the high school gymnasium being used for games.

TWO SEEK DIVORCE

Two more divorce petitions went into the Pickaway county common pleas court record Monday when Anna Christopher Spurlin of Scioto township filed suit against Floyd Spurlin and Milo K. Beavers, of Orient RFD, brought action against Katherine Louise Beavers. Both suits charge neglect of duty. The Spurlins were married in March, 1943, and Mr. and Mrs. Beavers in November, 1940. The latter couple has two children.

"I've offered plenty of amendments that got nowhere," he observed. "All the act needs is a penalty provision and the right kind of enforcement."

Connally contended that the strike ballot section of the legislation has the ultimate effect of "encouraging strikes." He said he "reluctantly agreed" to the house demand for an assurance of labor's right to strike only in order to obtain passage of the bill.

"Connally didn't want my bill—he held out for his own," was Smith's terse answer to this.

MRS. ROBERT CROWE DIES

Mrs. Altonia Warner Crowe, 76, widow of Robert Crowe, died suddenly early Tuesday at the home of her nephew, Harry Warner, near Rockbridge. Mrs. Crowe had spent her entire life in the Amanda community, removing only recently to the nephew's home. A brother, William, of Amanda, survives in addition to nieces and nephews. Her father, Richard Warner, was a prominent land owner in the Amanda district. Funeral will be Thursday at 2 p. m. at the Deffenbaugh funeral home with burial in Amanda township cemetery.

auxiliaries and 26 motor launches and sub-chasers.

Some French units have been fighting with the Allies since the outbreak of the war in 1939, the review pointed out. The "Fusiliers Marins" corresponding to the United States marines, fought gallantly at Bir-Hakeim. French submarines have been operating with the British for months. During the liberation of Corsica, the cruisers Montcalm and Jeanne D'Arc; the light cruisers Le Fantasque and Le Terrible; the destroyers L'Alcyon, Fortune, Basque and Tempete and the submarines Casablanca, La Perle and Aréthuse, all played major parts.

Impressive Entries

Other impressive entries in the shipping section of the review included:

1—Total tons of cargo landed in ports of North Africa, including Casablanca up to the middle of October (as distinguished from gross tonnage, entering ports)—9,440,000 tons of which an estimated 4,072,000 dead weight tons were represented by petrol, petroleum products, fuel and lubricating oils, kerosene and paraffin.

2—Gross tonnage of merchant shipping passing eastward through the Sicilian channel between the final victory in Tunisia on November 8—2,419,322 tons.

3—In one port alone, approximately 650 ocean-going Allied ships were discharged or loaded during the year.

4—At the same port, about 130 troop transports were embarked or disembarked and 300 coasters were laden or discharged.

5—Stores of sorts loaded at the port during the year totaled 400,000 tons.

6—From August 29 to November 2, 203,500 tons of general cargo were landed at Palermo in Sicily.

SCHOOL DELEGATES TO ATTEND STATE SESSION

Pickaway county schools are preparing to name delegates and alternates to the Ohio Education association to be held December 28 and 29 in Columbus.

George D. McDowell, superintendent, said that letters were put into the mail Tuesday to each school asking that each make one nomination for the delegate and alternate role.

The county is entitled to two delegates and two alternates. After nominations have been made, ballots will be sent to all members of the O. E. A., the voting to decide the four who will represent the county.

15 Pre-Pearl Harbor Fathers Accepted For Service Against Axis

Thirty-one Pickaway county men, including 15 pre-Pearl Harbor fathers, have been accepted by Army, Navy and Marine Corps out of the county's November draft contingent. Fifty local men were sent to the induction center last Thursday, the report to local selective service officials being delayed until Tuesday. Twenty-eight pre-Pearl Harbor dads were included in the group sent to the Columbus center.

Eighteen other men were rejected for physical reasons, while one was being held over for further physical. In addition, three men were transferred to the local board from distant draft boards, two of these being accepted.

Of the 31 local men taken for the various services, 19 will go to the army at the end of 21-day leaves, 11 will report to the navy Thursday and Friday and one will go to the marines.

The contingent was the first sent to an induction center containing pre-Pearl Harbor dads. Many men of this category will go to Columbus with the December contingent which numbers just a few men short of the November group. Notices for this contingent will not be put into the mails for probably the next two weeks.

AUSTRIA AGAIN

THE restoration of Austria, promised by the Moscow conference, is good news. Few countries have played so great a part in history. Beginning under Charlemagne, Austria became later the bulwark that saved Europe from the Turks, and an important part of the alliances that in turn kept Louis XIV of France and Napoleon from universal empire.

Austria's later career was less glorious. For most of the 19th century it was the reactionary center of the world. Finally it became a mere hanger-on of Germany, having less and less life till the last spark was extinguished by Hitler.

Austria has something to offer the world, however. While it lived, the Danube valley was more prosperous than it has been since. Also the proverbial "gemuetlichkeit" or easy-going temper of the Austrian Germans has made them delightful folk to live with. As a republic, freed from Hitlerite domination and possessed of economic resources that were denied the short-lived Austrian republic that the Nazis ended, Austria could yet be useful. It deserves another chance.

A MENTOR'S VOICE

CARTER Glass, an older statesman whose character and courage place him virtually above party, has raised his weary voice once more in a great cause. He cannot take his place in the senate among his colleagues, but he announces: "I stand now where I have always stood, without quibble or equivocation, behind a league of nations with power to prevent war and enforce peace."

He has plenty of support at last. Things are clearer today than they were in 1919, when a little group of men, most of them presumably sincere but some merely "wifful," prevented a world league for peace. It has taken the greatest and most destructive of wars to establish the principle of international cooperation and enforced peace. Obviously it had to come, to save modern civilization from destruction. There is no use in crying over spilt milk, but millions of Americans cannot help sighing, "If it could only have come then!"

There is here a lesson of humility, alike for statesmen and private citizens.

An old-fashioned American can still get more done with a program than he can with an agenda.

Where Joe Stalin sits is now the head of the table.

Responsibility Falls to Age
U. S. Army's Chief of Staff

General Marshall Cheerfully
Performs Monumental Job

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—"It must make you happy to realize that in addition to admiration you have the warm friendly confidence of the American people," I said in an enthusiastic moment the other night to Gen. George Marshall, chief of staff of the United States Army. "It does make me happy," said the general very solemnly, "but it makes me humble, too, and very aware of my great responsibility. I cannot let them down."

General Marshall is looking extremely well. Like a man who knows where he is going and it is the place he wants to go. He seems 20 years younger than he did at the beginning of the war when ultimate victory was less certain than now.

"Ever so often I think, 'Well, we got over THAT hump,'" the general said. "Then I come upon so many more humps I think I am in the Himalayas mountains."

Mrs. Marshall, who says she has turned farmer and is raising turkeys, was likewise a pleasure and a satisfaction to look upon. She wore a white and gold dress, very smart, and carried a white fox cape.

"A magazine doing a profile of the general asked me how much I thought you had to do with your husband's success," I volunteered.

"Well, is that so?" I laughed the general. "I hope you told them the truth." He looked proudly at Mrs. Marshall.

"I did tell them the truth," I said, and thought privately that I had never seen a husband and wife of high public place more completely sympathetic.

I ADMIRE EX-PRESIDENT HOOVER enormously but I do wish he would take a lesson or two in radio speaking. There was good material in Hoover's Kansas City talk but as I listened in I kept thinking how dramatically President Roosevelt would have presented the Hoover idea of "This is a People's War—It Must Be a People's Peace!"

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

RIVALRY OVER PHILIPPINES

WASHINGTON—The ticklish question of who is going to be president of the Philippines after November 15 was placed on the White House doorstep recently, with the result that Judge Sam Rosenman shoved it gingerly away. If the Philippine constitution is to be set aside, he insisted, congress would have to do it.

This has brought into the open an unfortunate row between distinguished, invalid President Quezon and popular Vice President Osmena. On November 15, the Philippine constitution provides, Vice President Osmena shall succeed Quezon as president. But Quezon doesn't want to step down, has hired Homer Cummings, appointed governor general of the Philippines before he became attorney general, to plead his case.

The rivalry, smoldering ever since Quezon failed to take his cabinet out of Manila, choosing a personal staff of servants and doctors instead, has now flared out in the Philippine-American newspapers.

Filipinos in this country point to the unfortunate fact that because Quezon's cabinet was left behind, the members have been forced by the Japs to constitute the Jap puppet cabinet in Manila. Quezon was allowed by Gen. MacArthur to take 30 people with him from Manila to Corregidor, and Filipinos in this country claim that if he had taken out the cabinet instead of his servants and personal aides, things might have been different.

Vice President Osmena had to appeal to Gen. MacArthur personally in order to be included in the party.

Back of the dispute is the fact that Quezon originally was elected for one term of six years on a platform pledging no second term. When the first term expired in 1940, the constitution was changed to add two more years, with a proviso that no president would serve more than eight years. The eight years is up next week.

In the 1941 elections, Quezon got 80 percent of the vote, but Vice President Osmena got 82 percent. Osmena is especially popular in the southern islands, where he lives, the area where presumably any landing to retake the Philippines must be made.

NOTE: One of those who wanted to go with Quezon to Corregidor was Yale-educated Jose P. Laurel, now president of the Japanese-Philippine Republic. As a high school student Laurel had shot three men in a fight over a girl. An American attorney, Clyde DeWitt, secured his acquittal on a technicality. Filipinos say: "All that he has owes to Americans."

KNIFE OUT FOR WILLKIE

Oil man-GOP boss Joe Pew of Pennsylvania is getting ready to unlimber his big guns against the Willkie-for-President forces. This is the story behind former Republican National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton's political tour of the West.

Pew hasn't yet selected a candidate of his own, according to GOP insiders, although he is inclined toward Tom Dewey. His one burning ambition is to destroy Willkie. Hamilton, a close friend of the oil baron and law associate of George Wharton Pepper, Pew counsel, let this drop in private chats with Capitol politicians before leaving on his tour.

He didn't have to reveal that Pew had a hand in the trip; this was taken for granted. But he did disclose that his main (Continued on Page Eight)

Weather and Our Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

THE FATHER of Medicine, Hippocrates, paid a good deal of attention to the influence of the weather on disease. One of his works is called Of Waters, Airs,

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

And Places. He always insisted that his healing temples be placed in a salubrious climate between mountains, sea and river.

But when medicine got so scientific and germs were discovered as the definite cause of many diseases, the idea sort of got pushed into the background. There are only two men in the United States who write to any extent about the weather and human health—one is Dr. Clarence Mills, of Cincinnati, and the other, William F. Petersen, of Ann Arbor.

Dr. Petersen has just published a fascinating book about Lincoln, Douglas and the Weather As Destiny, seeking to show that the weather changes that occurred during their lives influenced their fortunes, their successes and their destinies. He has been to an enormous amount of trouble to dig out old weather reports.

Influence on Debates

During the famous Lincoln-Douglas debates in the summer of 1858 it can be noted that during the debates when Lincoln was most triumphant the weather was warm to hot—for instance, the Freeport Speech on August 27th.

Now according to Dr. Petersen's theory, the two types of human body, as represented by Lincoln and Douglas respectively, react differently to hot and cold weather. Lincoln was the long, thin type with most of his blood in his internal organs. When the weather got hot, the blood came out to the surface of his body and made him feel alive and well. Douglas, being of the broad type with his blood at the surface most of the time anyway, was made miserable by the surface congestion brought on by hot weather, couldn't think clearly or speak impressively under such circumstances and cut a poor figure beside the brilliant exposition of Lincoln.

Such are the "consequences of Man as a Cosmic Resonator."

Other Incidents

Other incidents of Lincoln's career are adduced to show this influence. The "fatal first" of January, 1841, was the day on which he broke his engagement to Mary Todd. The weather was cold and damp and Lincoln's nature was not in the mood for love or marriage. When, then, was it likely that Mary Todd would be able to marry him? "In the good old summer time." Which is just what she did.

I do not know that I can subscribe to all of Dr. Petersen's theories in detail. They are interesting and unquestionably show that there are meteorological destinies that shape our ends, rough hew them as we will. But we can do something about it too. It would be hard to think we could never rise even above the weather.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

J. L.—Is there any possible way in which I can increase my height either by a certain diet or exercise? I am 21 years old, 5 feet 8 inches in height, all my brothers are 6 feet.

Answer: There is certainly no way to increase height after the age of 21, either by diet, exercise, or anything else. Sometimes in young children who do not grow fast enough the use of thyroid extract helps. However you have a good height. Everybody can't be 6 feet tall.

SYNOPSIS

Roommates and cousins, BETH KINNAN, serious-minded and trusting, and ANDREA BARNES, rather self-centered and selfish, find that the tense, accompanying America's impending entrance into the war is beginning to affect their lives. For three years Beth has been going with JIM RONALD, who still has not been too successful in getting ahead in the world, while Andrea has been attracted by DENNIS ARCHER, 15 years her senior, but wealthy and interesting—and also married.

YESTERDAY Judge Mayfield, Beth's employer, dies, leaving her without a job.

CHAPTER TEN

HER BACK and her arms ached, but Beth felt her spirits lighter than they had been since November, and she sang as she slid the freshly laundered curtains over a row and climbed up on the telephone table to hang them. Then she got down again, rubbing her back, and stood off to observe the effect of the curtains.

They hung in points here and there, but at least they were clean and fresh, like the skirts of the dressing table which she'd washed the day before.

She dropped on the bed and cast a housewifely eye over as much of the apartment as she could see. Everything was spotless. The floors had a fluffed, clean look, as well they might. For one whole week, Beth Kinnan, late a secretary, had turned herself into a slave. Her reasons had been two: by keeping herself occupied and tiring herself out with manual labor, she was able to keep her excitement under control, and the other reason was that Peg Woodruff was coming to dinner.

Peg loomed large in Beth's plans. Plans, incidentally, which she was keeping entirely to herself. She got herself collected from the bed, bathed and dressed and went into the kitchen to begin getting dinner.

Andrea came in as Beth was busily resting chicken and took an ecstatic sniff. "Wow, Beth! We never had anything like this when you were working. How much longer does the vacation last?"

Beth practically hid her face in the oven. "I expect to be going to work soon."

Andrea picked up a carrot to nibble on. "You haven't even started looking for a job. . . . See you've done the bedroom curtains. Are we having mashed potatoes?"

"And broccoli," Beth said, as the door bell rang. "That'll be Peg."

"Oh, boy," Peg said, stretching out on the sofa after their meal. "What a change this is from my boarding house! You haven't got room for one more here, have you?"

Beth swallowed guiltily, cast a wary look in Andrea's direction, and said, "Suppose I couldn't get a job here. . . . I mean if I got a job somewhere else. . . . I mean, maybe you and Andy would live together."

Peg closed her eyes happily. "I'd do three-quarters of the work for the privilege," she announced. "Just say the word."

Andrea said, "What are you getting at, Beth? You and I not live together? Why, we . . . we're pork and beans. April and showers, Christmas and New Years. We've always been together!"

"I know," Beth said, evading a direct glance at her, "but you'll be getting married soon maybe and I . . . I have to get a job and support myself and . . ."

And then the bell rang and it was a friend of Andrea's who had come in to play bridge. So Beth didn't have to answer any more questions, for which she was greatly relieved.

She had it all planned. Just the way she would do it. First there would be the news—probably by telegram the commission told her in the post office—and then she'd show it to Andrea and tell her how she wanted to do something useful and Andrea would be sure to see it that way, and then she'd remind Andrea that Peg wanted to come and live with her, and say that they could always see each other.

And that way she would get away and Andrea would never know that it was just because she didn't want to see Jim Mayfield later when they were married—and she sometimes thought of what the judge had said to her on his deathbed about other men in other places—she wouldn't ache over Jim any more.

So the first week went by, and then the second, and Beth began to jump toward the telephone when it rang, and to be awake an hour before the postman made his first call, but there was no news, and she knew she'd have to start looking for another job.

Sometimes she wondered what would happen if she took her money and went to Boston or New York and tried to live on it until she got a job. But she wouldn't think of that until she heard from Washington.

In June the poster in the post office mocked her when she went in to the Civil Service commission to see why there had been no news. "First you get your rating, Miss Kinnan," the clerk told her. "And then when there's a job they send for you."

"But I thought they needed girls I can't wait forever."

"Have to wait your turn. Things are moving fast some ways and slow in others down there. Know a congressman?"

Beth said she didn't and was told to sit tight, eventually she'd be sent for.

"Eventually" wouldn't be time enough. Beth began her rounds of employment offices, of department stores, everywhere except to the Archer Mills, and what kept her from that, she couldn't have told you.

The rent had to be paid the third week of her idleness and so she had to take $30 from her precious fund, and she had to take out money for car fare and lunches, and for all that Andrea protested, she insisted on paying her half of the food bill.

Then the fourth week, when Washington was so busy getting its alphabetical bureaus organized without benefit of her stenographic help, she heard there was a job as a typist at the First National bank and went there prepared to take anything she could get.

At the bank she was told to wait to see a Mr. Simmons, so she sat herself on a chair outside the rail which divided the lobby from the public privacy that is peculiar to bank officials. Mr. Simmons was talking to a tall gentleman in a white linen suit, and when he rose to leave, Beth thought the banker beckoned for her to come in.

She was a little flustered and so managed to bump squarely into the man in the white suit.

"Sorry," each murmured to the other.

Then he said, "Why, it's Miss Kinnan!"

Mr. Simmons said, "Please wait outside, miss. . . . I'll call you when I'm ready."

Beth felt herself flush, like a charity case being told to wait its turn, and when Dennis said, "So we share the same bank?" she said, "Not yet. You probably own it. I'm just here hoping to get a job."

"You're a secretary, aren't you?" Dennis asked, leading her away from the rail.

She nodded. "I was My employer, Judge Mayfield, died last month. I . . . I've been hoping to get something in Washington. I was told they're badly in need of secretarial help there, but I . . . I guess I have to wait for them to get around to me."

"Washington?" Dennis snapped his fingers. "You mean you want to pull up stakes and go there?"

She nodded. "I thought I'd like to get out and see something of the world besides Pennington, but I guess that was an idle . . ."

She cut an anxious look over her shoulder at Mr. Simmons, who was now dictating to a stenographer.

Then to her utter amazement, Dennis was taking her hand and leading her out of the bank.

Once outside he let her hand go and took her elbow. "If you still want to go to Washington, young lady, I believe I can do something about it, if I can catch Henry Slade at the Quinaplace club."

Beth, experiencing a few of the thrills of being on a merry-go-round, asked, "Who is Henry Slade?"

"Friend of mine from Washington. His secretary's got married, and he's high and dry for help. Interested?"

"Oh, please!" she said. "Let's hurry. You don't know what it would mean to me!"

AUSTRIA AGAIN

THE restoration of Austria, promised by the Moscow conference, is good news. Few countries have played so great a part in history. Beginning under Charlemagne, Austria became later the bulwark that saved Europe from the Turks, and an important part of the alliances that in turn kept Louis XIV of France and Napoleon from universal empire.

Austria's later career was less glorious. For most of the 19th century it was the reactionary center of the world. Finally it became a mere hanger-on of Germany, having less and less life till the last spark was extinguished by Hitler.

Austria has something to offer the world, however. While it lived, the Danube valley was more prosperous than it has been since. Also the proverbial "gemuetlichkeit" or easy-going temper of the Austrian Germans has made them delightful folk to live with. As a republic, freed from Hitlerite domination and possessed of economic resources that were denied the short-lived Austrian republic that the Nazis ended, Austria could yet be useful. It deserves another chance.

A MENTOR'S VOICE

CARTER Glass, an older statesman whose character and courage place him virtually above party, has raised his weary voice once more in a great cause. He cannot take his place in the senate among his colleagues, but he announces: "I stand now where I have always stood, without quibble or equivocation, behind a league of nations with power to prevent war and enforce peace."

There is plenty of support at last. Things are clearer today than they were in 1919, when a little group of men, most of them presumably sincere but some merely "wilful," prevented a world league for peace. It has taken the greatest and most destructive of wars to establish the principle of international cooperation and enforced peace. Obviously it had to come, to save modern civilization from destruction. There is no use in crying over spilt milk, but millions of Americans cannot help sighing, "If it could only have come then!"

There is here a lesson of humility, alike for statesmen and private citizens.

An old-fashioned American can still get more done with a program than he can with an agenda.

Responsibility Falls to Age | General Marshall Cheerfully
U. S. Army's Chief of Staff | Performs Monumental Job

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—"It must make you happy to realize that in addition to admiration you have the warm friendly confidence of the American people," I said in an enthusiastic moment the other night to Gen. George Marshall, chief of staff of the United States Army. "It does make me happy," said the general very solemnly, "but it makes me humble, too, and very aware of my great responsibility. I cannot let them down."

General Marshall is looking extremely well. Like a man who knows where he is going and it is the place he wants to go. He seems 20 years younger than he did at the beginning of the war when ultimate victory was less certain than now.

"Ever so often I think, 'Well, we got over THAT hump,'" the general said. "Then I come upon so many more humps I think I am in the Himalaya mountains."

Mrs. Marshall, who says she has turned farmer and is raising turkeys, was likewise a pleasure and a satisfaction to look upon. She wore a white and gold dress, very smart, and carried a white fox cape.

"A magazine doing a profile of the general asked me how much I thought you had to do with your husband's success," I volunteered.

"Well! Is that so?" laughed the general. "I hope you told them the truth." He looked proudly at Mrs. Marshall. "I did tell them the truth," I said, and thought privately that I had never seen a husband and wife of high public place more completely sympathetic.

I ADMIRE EX-PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT enormously but I do wish he would take a lesson or two in radio speaking. There was good material in Hoover's Kansas City talk but as I listened in I kept thinking how dramatically President Roosevelt would have presented the Hoover idea of "This is a People's War—It Must Be a People's Peace!"

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

RIVALRY OVER PHILIPPINES

WASHINGTON—The ticklish question of who is going to be president of the Philippines after November 15 was placed on the White House doorstep recently, with the result that Judge Sam Rosenman shoved it gingerly away. If the Philippine constitution is to be set aside, he insisted, congress would have to do it.

This has brought into the open an unfortunate row between distinguished, invalid President Quezon and popular Vice President Osmena. On November 15, the Philippine constitution provides, Vice President Osmena shall succeed Quezon as president. But Quezon doesn't want to step down, has hired Homer Cummings, appointed governor general of the Philippines before he became attorney general, to plead his case.

The rivalry, smouldering ever since Quezon failed to take his cabinet out of Manila, choosing a personal staff of servants and doctors instead, has now flared out in the Philippine-American newspapers.

Filipinos in this country point to the unfortunate fact that because Quezon's cabinet was left behind, the members have been forced by the Japs to constitute the Jap puppet cabinet in Manila. Quezon was allowed by Gen. MacArthur to take 30 people with him from Manila to Corregidor, and Filipinos in this country claim that if he had taken out the cabinet instead of his servants and personal aides, things might have been different.

Vice President Osmena had to appeal to Gen. MacArthur personally in order to be included in the party.

Back of the dispute is the fact that Quezon originally was elected for one term of six years on a platform pledging no second term. When the first term expired in 1940, the constitution was changed to add two more years, with a proviso that no president would serve more than eight years. The eight years is up next week.

In the 1941 elections, Quezon got 80 percent of the vote, but Vice President Osmena got 82 percent. Osmena is especially popular in the southern islands, where he lives, the area where presumably any landing to retake the Philippines must be made.

NOTE: One of those who wanted to go with Quezon to Corregidor was Yale-educated Jose P. Laurel, now president of the Japanese-Philippine Republic. As a high school student Laurel had shot three men in a fight over a girl. An American attorney, Clyde DeWitt, secured his acquittal on a technicality. Filipinos say: "All that he owes to Americans."

Weather and Our Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE FATHER of Medicine, Hippocrates, paid a good deal of attention to the influence of the weather on disease. One of his works is called Of Waters, Airs,

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

And Places. He always insisted that his healing temples be placed in a salubrious climate between mountains, sea and river.

When medicine got so scientific and germs were discovered as the definite cause of many diseases, the idea sort of got pushed into the background. There are only two men in the United States who write to any extent about the weather and human health—one is Dr. Clarence Mills, of Cincinnati, and the other, William F. Petersen, of Ann Arbor.

Dr. Petersen has just published a fascinating book about Lincoln, Douglas And the Weather As Destiny, seeking to show that the weather changes that occurred during their lives influenced their fortunes, their successes and their destinies. He has been to an enormous amount of trouble to dig out old weather reports.

And that way she would get away and Andrea would never know that it was just because she didn't want to see Jim Mayfield later when they were married—and she sometimes thought of what the judge had said to her on his deathbed about other men in other places—she wouldn't ache over Jim any more.

So the first week went by, and then the second, and Beth began to jump toward the telephone when it rang, and to be awake an hour before the postman made his first call, but there was no news, and she knew she'd have to start looking for another job.

Sometimes she wondered what would happen if she took her money and went to Boston or New York and tried to live on it until she got a job. But she wouldn't think of that until she heard from Washington.

In June the pastor in the post office mailed her when she went in to the Civil Service commission to see why there had been no news.

"First you get your rating, Miss Kinnan," the clerk told her. "And then when there's a job they send for you."

"But I thought they needed girls I can't wait forever."

"Have to wait your turn. Things are moving fast some ways and slow in others down there. Know a congressman?"

Beth said she didn't and was told to sit tight, eventually she'd be sent for.

"Eventually" wouldn't be time enough. Beth began her rounds of employment offices, of department stores, everywhere except to the Archer Mills, and what kept her from that, she couldn't have told you.

The rent had to be paid the third week of her idleness and so she had to take $50 from her precious fund, and she had to take out money for car fare and lunches, and for all that Andrea protested, she insisted on paying her half of the food bill.

Then the fourth week, when Washington was so busy getting its alphabetical bureau organized without benefit of her stenographic help, she heard there was a job as a typist at the First National bank and went there prepared to take anything she could get.

At the bank she was told to wait to see a Mr. Simmons, so she sat herself on a chair outside the rail which divided the lobby from the public privacy that is peculiar to bank officials. Mr. Simmons was talking to a tall gentleman in a white linen suit, and when he rose to leave, Beth thought the banker beckoned for her to come in.

She was a little flustered and so managed to bump squarely into the man in the white suit.

"Sorry," each murmured to the other.

Then he said, "Why, it's Miss Kinnan!"

Mr. Simmons said, "Please wait outside, miss. . . . I'll call you when I'm ready."

Beth felt herself flush, like a charity case being told to wait its turn, and when Dennis said, "So we share the same bank?" she said, "Not yet. You probably own it. I'm just here hoping to get a job."

"You're a secretary, aren't you?" Dennis asked, leading her away from the rail.

She nodded. "I was. My employer, Judge Mayfield, died last month. I . . . I've been hoping to get something in Washington. I was told they're badly in need of secretarial help there, but I . . . I guess I have to wait for them to get around to me."

"Washington?" Dennis snapped his fingers. "You mean you want to pull up stakes and go there?"

She nodded. "I thought I'd like to get out and see something of the world besides Pennington, but I guess that was an idle . . ." She cast an anxious look over her shoulder at Mr. Simmons, who was now dictating to a stenographer.

Then to her utter amazement, Dennis was taking her hand and leading her out of the bank.

Once outside he let her hand go and took her elbow. "If you still want to go to Washington, young lady, I believe I can do something about it, if I can catch Henry Slade at the Quinlan club."

Beth, experiencing a few of the thrills of being on a merry-go-round, asked, "Who is Henry Slade?"

"He's of mine from Washington. His secretary's got married, and he's high and dry for help. Interested?"

"Oh, please," she said. "Let's hurry. You don't know what it would mean to me!"

For Tuesday, November 9

EXCEPTIONAL opportunity for expansion, production and progress along outstanding and conspicuous lines is presaged by the dominant planetary influences. With ingenuity, originality, daring to swerve far afield from the accepted or long trodden paths, should give surprising acceleration to plans and projects of scope and significance. Public or community benefits might be furthered by aggressive and determined action. However, there might be a tendency to overdo, to smother good judgment or logic and to be prodigal or wasteful with funds, credit, energy and the generosity of friends. Keep poised.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of excellent opportunities for advancing themselves in affairs of large scope, either in connection with private objectives or in public service. This could be accomplished by originality, unusual skill or innovation, and under the substantial patronage of those in influential position. However, a prudency to restrain, lavish, extravagant and impetuous activities may prove detrimental and forfeit expected assistance. Consider well various angles before taking hazardous plunges or illogical moves.

A child born on this day may have much creative ability, originality and high ambitions, but could be prone to be carried away by excitement, impetuosity or hasty judgments. Under proper restraints it should make fine success in life.

Russian Student To Address Monday Club

Study of Soviet Planned By City Group

Valentina Azarov, an outstanding Russian student at Ohio State university, Columbus, will be the guest speaker at the next meeting of the Monday club, November 22. This will be one of the highlights of the year's program which is devoted in part to the study of Russia. The session will begin at 8 p. m. as will all meetings of the season following action at the Monday session. Members will be permitted to take guests to this special meeting.

Miss Margaret Rooney was in the chair for the meeting which opened with the singing of "America, the Beautiful". Miss Abbie Mills Clarke playing the piano accompaniment.

The program theme for the evening was "Russian Women of Today", ably presented in two splendid papers by Mrs. Dan Pfoutz and Mrs. Barton Deming.

Mrs. Pfoutz told of women of Russia in a general way. She mentioned that "The Women of Russia are wanting neither in energy nor aptitude, neither in courage nor self reliance." She spoke particularly of one young woman whose husband, Fedya, went off to the front and through his bravery in binding the wounds of his comrades, froze his hands and was at last killed by an enemy's bullet. It was no time to dwell on the loathing of the Germans are greater than before; I will take revenge for Fedya, for our broken life, for our stolen happiness, for our motherland. I am young, I am very strong, and if necessary will work day and night. We live with one desire, one thought, to destroy and wipe out the enemy. However heavy our losses and sorrows, nothing can break our spirit, our will to struggle. We have one slogan, "Forward to Victory."

Mrs. Deming emphasized that there were no idlers among the deep feeling Russian women. They do the lightest and the heaviest tasks of the nation. They have replaced men in industry by the millions, and still more millions are doing the work of men of the farms. She told also of the women of Murmansk, that Arctic seaport of Russia, where every able-bodied man is at the front. Women here are engineers, forewomen, dock hands, doing all kinds of difficult and heavy tasks. Everywhere are the courageous women carrying on after the men have left for the front.

Mrs. Deming told in part of the prominent places filled by many Russian women today. Russian women are not a part of their great army, nor are they permitted to hold public office, but they are taking the places of men very successfully and efficiently. The medical corps of the Russian army today is filled with women doctors and surgeons who stay behind the lines in field hospitals. Nina Mataveva is the head of one of the principal departments of a large Moscow hospital. She organized one of the first medical sanitary battalions, a field hospital that closely followed the army.

Mrs. Deming spoke of the great number of women nurses who have been decorated for bravery under fire.

A number of women pilots and veterinarians are connected with the Russian army, and Mrs. Deming told in detail of many outstanding women in civil and industrial work.

She mentioned the groups of women who have passed regular military training courses, although the Russian government does not permit women to enlist in the army. She told in conclusion of the women guerrilla fighters who have performed great and heroic deeds and have greatly aided the army even though they are not a part of it.

The program was especially fine and was received with deep attention and interest by the club group.

Von Bora Society

For Special Afternoons

THE afternoon frock which can't be mistaken for an all-day proposition is back with us once again. It isn't the short dinner dress we are talking about, either... but really an afternoon costume.

Now that everyone is a career woman, office workers out for relaxation straight from the office no longer need compete with ladies of leisure who spent the afternoon dressing for tea. Everyone appears "as is," from war work or professional work... or everyone goes home to change into an afternoon frock quite pretty enough for doings later on in the evening.

This bronze green crepe frock, with its satin back used in telling manner for dressmaker detailing, is a true afternoon frock. Self buttons, self ruchings about yoke and hipline, are its only trim. It is a good suggestion for the wedding costume for bride or guest.

the devotionals in the opening service.

David Stoer, president, conducted the business hour and dismissed the group with prayer. More than 15 members were present.

The next meeting, November 21, will be at the church with Lawrence Reid and Jean Smith leading the devotionals. Helen and Warren Grover and Joe Armstrong are members of the refreshment committee for the next session.

Return to Ohio

Neat About the House

A SMOCK is a wonderful object, beloved by many housekeepers, abhorred by others. No one can deny it does the trick of making a pretty as well as a practical costume for home chores... but some women simply can't like it.

For them, the new fitted housecoats, slick as a princess dress, washable, inexpensive, pretty of fabric, are the make-the-bed find. The model, right, which retails for about the price of a theater ticket, is of fast color percale which has a multi-colored floral print. A gadget at either side of the waistline guarantees a fine figure fit; buttons from neck to hem guarantee easy laundering. The cuffs unbutton to permit sleeve rolling; the lapelled collar, deep pockets are other practical bits of designing.

AIRCRAFT COURSES
STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—Opening of an aircraft engineering course to train girls for work in the Glenn L. Martin plant marked the fourth aircraft industry to take advantage of the facilities of the Pennsylvania State College for the training of technical personnel. Consolidated Vultee Aircraft, Curtiss-Wright, and Hamilton Standard Propellers also have Penn State supervised programs.

SURPLUS FUNDS
ALBANY, N. Y.—New York State is expected to end the current year with a surplus of nearly $80,000,000. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has indicated that he will allow the surplus to increase, instead of lowering taxes, so that sufficient funds will be available in postwar days for rehabilitation needs.

HOME MAKING AN 'ART'
COLUMBUS — Home-making is now recognized as "an art and a science" in a new curriculum announced by Ohio State university. The new curriculum in home-making, leading to a bachelor of arts degree, may be completed in four regular academic years, or in three by including Summer study. However, realizing the importance of a well-balanced education, girls taking this program may take no more than one-third of their work in the School of Home Economics. Remaining studies must be in languages, natural sciences, and social sciences.

For Special Afternoons

THE afternoon frock which can't be mistaken for an all-day proposition is back with us once again. It isn't the short dinner dress we are talking about, either... but really an afternoon costume.

Now that everyone is a career woman, office workers out for relaxation straight from the office no longer need compete with ladies of leisure who spent the afternoon dressing for tea. Everyone appears "as is," from war work or professional work... or everyone goes home to change into an afternoon frock quite pretty enough for doings later on in the evening.

This bronze green crepe frock, with its satin back used in telling manner for dressmaker detailing, is a true afternoon frock. Self buttons, self ruchings about yoke and neckline, are its only trim. It is a good suggestion for the wedding costume for bride or guest.

the devotionals in the opening service.

David Stoer, president, conducted the business hour and dismissed the group with prayer. More than 15 members were present.

The next meeting, November 21, will be at the church with Lawrence Reid and Jean Smith leading the devotionals. Helen and Warren Grover and Joe Armstrong are members of the refreshment committee for the next session.

Return to Ohio

Mrs. Julius J. Wright and daughter, Judith Anne, have returned to the home of her sister, Mrs. Harry Morris, New Holland, from Macon, Georgia, where they have been living for the last five months at 103 Lamont street, while Staff Sergeant Wright was stationed at Warner Robins Field. Mrs. Wright and daughter will remain in New Holland for the present. S/Sgt. Wright has been transferred to Orlando, Fla., for a month's schooling.

Neat About the House

A SMOCK is a wonderful object, beloved by many housekeepers, abhorred by others. No one can deny it does the trick of making a pretty as well as a practical costume for home chores... but some women simply can't like it.

For them, the new fitted housecoats, slick as a princess dress, washable, inexpensive, pretty of fabric, are the make-the-bed find. The model, right, which retails for about the price of a theater ticket, is of fast color percale which has a multi-colored floral print. A gadget at either side of the waistline guarantees a fine figure fit; buttons from neck to hem guarantee easy laundering. The cuffs unbutton to permit sleeve rolling; the lapelled collar, deep pockets are other practical bits of designing.

AIRCRAFT COURSES

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—Opening of an aircraft engineering course to train girls for work in the Glenn L. Martin plant marked the fourth aircraft industry to take advantage of the facilities of the Pennsylvania State College for the training of technical personnel. Consolidated Vultee Aircraft, Curtiss-Wright, and Hamilton Standard Propellers also have Penn State supervised programs.

SURPLUS FUNDS

ALBANY, N. Y.—New York State is expected to end the current year with a surplus of nearly $80,000,000. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has indicated that he will allow the surplus to increase, instead of lowering taxes, so that sufficient funds will be available in postwar days for rehabilitation needs.

WILDCATS EXPECTING TO BE EIGHTH FOR IRISH

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 9—The Northwestern Wildcats today accepted possibly with some misgivings the dubious honor of becoming the eighth team this season to make a stand against the unbeaten Notre Dame Irish. The game at Evanston Saturday will be a renewal of a rivalry between the two schools that dates back to 1889. In the series Notre Dame has beaten the Wildcats 17 times and has lost only three games. Two were tied.

Coach Lynn Waldorf sought ways and means of stopping Notre Dame's victory parade.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 9—Notre Dame's regulars, fresh after a rest from their victory over Army, got back into the practice harness today in preparation for Northwestern.

Julie Rykovich, No. 1 right halfback who saw only minor action in the Army game because of his recent illness, was expected to get back in top condition before the week is out.

A Liberty ship has been named for Mason L. (Parson) Weems, early biographer of George Washington, and reputed originator of the cherry tree story.

Spud Chandler Honored As Most Valuable Star In American Loop Poll

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—Spurgen (Spud) Chandler, New York Yankee right-hander who won 20 games during the last baseball season and two more in the World Series, is the American league's most valuable player for 1943.

The former University of Georgia footballer took 12 first place votes out of a possible 24 and finished with 246 points to win top honors over Shortstop Luke Appling, of the Chicago White Sox, in balloting among Baseball Writers Association committees in the various major league cities. Appling was given five first place votes and a total of 215 points.

Appling received seven second place votes against four given to Chandler and beat out Rudy York, Detroit Tiger slugger, for the runner-up spot. York received one first place vote and seven for second and polled 152 points.

As a Yankee took the honor for the third year in a row, a surprisingly popular young man with the vote-casters was Third Baseman Bill Johnson, of the Yankees. The rookie finished behind York with three firsts and 135 points.

Chandler, however, earned his place out in front, a place held last season by Joe Gordon and the year before by Joe DiMaggio. The big Georgian was the key pitcher in the Yankee march to the pennant with his 20 wins against four defeats and in the Yankee conquest over the Cards as well. He hurled the first game victory in the World Series, then fired the clincher in the fifth game.

He thus joins outfielder Stan Musial of the Cards as top man. The latter recently was named the National League's most valuable.

Behind Chandler, Appling, York and Bill Johnson, in order, came Eno Johnson, of the Washington Senators, Dick Wakefield, of the Detroit Tigers; Nick Etten and Bill Dickey of the Yankees; Verne Stephens, of the St. Louis Browns, and Lou Boudreau, Cleveland manager and shortstop. Still others trailed farther to the rear.

Among the latter was Gordon himself, a great ball player during the 1942 season when he earned the award, then a flop in the World Series that year, and a none too terrific player through most of last season, but an outstanding star in the World Series. He received a grand total of six points this time.

To Get Awards
Like Musial, Chandler will receive the Sporting News award presented annually on the basis of the Baseball Writers' selection.

A native of Carnesville, Ga., Chandler has been in professional baseball since 1932 when he broke in with Springfield of the Eastern league. He bounced around in the minors of the east, mid-west and the Pacific Coast, until 1937 when he joined the Yankees. His best previous record until this season was 16 wins and five defeats in 1942, and it took him until the last October to score his first world series triumph.

He lost his only game in 1941 and last year lost one of two games he appeared in without scoring a win.

In beating the Cards the first time in the last World Series, in the opening game, he allowed only seven hits and finished in front 4 to 2. In the clincher, he gave up 10 hits but made it a 2 to 0 home run, aided by Bill Dickey's homer with Charley Keller on base.

And here's a plea to fathers of boys who have been doing their best to give Circleville a winner this year. . . . Next Friday night is being observed as Dads' Night, in addition to Homecoming. . . . It is your duty to be on the bench wearing your son's number when the first whistling blows. . . . It is rather disconcerting for a football player to see the other player's duds on the bench backing them up, and then know that his own dad is not there. . . . It's a duty you owe your son for doing a splendid job for his school.

PITT SQUAD RESTS

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 9—Coach Clark Shaughnessy prepared today to resume drilling the Pitt Panthers after a day of rest in which they licked wounds of Saturday's 46-6 defeat by Ohio State. Their next scheduled game will be against Penn State on November 20. A contest originally booked with Nebraska at Lincoln has been cancelled.

WILLIAMS MOVES UP

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9—Like Williams, Trenton lightweight, moved a step closer today to a title match with Bob Montgomery after scoring a convincing third-round knockout over Johnny Hutchinson, Quaker City glover, before a record crowd of 8,000 at the arena.

ILLINOIS SQUAD PUTS TWO SCAT BACKS ON FIELD

McGovern And Bray Might Make Things Tough For Ohio Staters

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9—Two of the fastest and most elusive "scat" backs in the mid-west, Eddie McGovern and Eddie Bray, will be the big guns in the Illinois attack when the Illini and Ohio State tangle Saturday in the Bucks annual homecoming game.

McGovern, the former Rose Poly star and one of the leading scorers last year, can really lug the pigskin. Weighing only 165, McGovern has crossed the double stripe six times this season and chalked up six conversions for a point total of 42. He ranks fifth in scoring in the Western Conference.

Against Iowa last Saturday, McGovern scampered 95-yards through the entire Iowa team to score standing up. The Illini defeated Iowa, 19-10.

Bray, weighing ten pounds less than McGovern is dynamite once he starts sweeping those ends. Combined with McGovern, the two make the Illini backfield dangerous.

The youthful Bucks, fresh with a convincing 46-6 triumph over Pitt last Saturday will counter with Ernie Parks. The State's 100 and 220-yard dash champion, Parks can really travel. Against Pitt he scored on a 68-yard run and tallied again on a nine-yard reverse.

State will be striving for its first conference victory. The injury-riddled Bucks were smacked down severely in conference games with Purdue, Northwestern and Indiana.

Illinois holds conference wins over Wisconsin and Iowa, while losing to Purdue and Michigan.

WILDCATS EXPECTING TO BE EIGHTH FOR IRISH

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 9.—The Northwestern Wildcats today accepted possibly with some misgivings the dubious honor of becoming the eighth team this season to make a stand against the unbeaten Notre Dame Irish. The game at Evanston Saturday will be a renewal of a rivalry between the two schools that dates back to 1859. In the series Notre Dame has beaten the Wildcats 17 times and has lost only three games. Two were tied.

Coach Lynn Waldorf sought ways and means of stopping Notre Dame's victory parade.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 9.—Notre Dame's regulars, fresh after a rest from their victory over Army, got back into the practice harness today in preparation for Northwestern.

Julie Rykovich, No. 1 right half-back who saw only minor action in the Army game because of his recent illness, was expected to get back in top condition before the week is out.

A Liberty ship has been named for Mason L. (Parson) Weems, early biographer of George Washington, and reputed originator of the cherry tree story.

Spud Chandler Honored As Most Valuable Star In American Loop Poll

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Spurgeon (Spud) Chandler, New York Yankee right-hander who won 20 games during the last baseball season and two more in the World Series, is the American league's most valuable player for 1943.

The former University of Georgia footballer took 12 first place votes out of a possible 24 and finished with 246 points to win top honors over Shortstop Luke Appling, of the Chicago White Sox, in balloting among Baseball Writers Association committees in the various major league cities. Appling was given five first place votes and a total of 215 points.

Appling received seven second place votes against four given to Chandler and beat out Rudy York, Detroit Tiger slugger, for the runner-up spot. York received one first place vote and seven for second and polled 152 points.

As a Yankee took the honor for the third year in a row, a surprisingly popular young man with the vote-casters was Third Baseman Bill Johnson, of the Yankees. The rookie finished behind York with three firsts and 135 points.

Follows Two Joes

Chandler, however, earned his place out in front, a place held last season by Joe Gordon and the year before by Joe DiMaggio. The big Georgian was the key pitcher in the Yankee march to the pennant with his 20 wins against four defeats and in the Yankee conquest over the Cards as well. He hurled the first game victory in the World Series, then fired the clincher in the fifth game.

He thus joins outfielder Stan Musial of the Cards as top man. The latter recently was named the National League's most valuable.

Behind Chandler, Appling, York and Bill Johnson, in order, came Bob Johnson, of the Washington Senators; Dick Wakefield, of the Detroit Tigers; Nick Etten and Bill Dickey of the Yanks; Verne Stephens, of the St. Louis Browns, and Lou Boudreau, Cleveland manager and shortstop. Still others trailed farther to the rear.

Among the latter was Gordon himself, a great ball player during the 1942 season when he earned the award, then a flop in the World Series that year, and a none too terrific player through most of last season, but an outstanding star in the World Series. He received a grand total of six points this time.

About This And That In Many Sports

Crippled by loss of Dave Mader, Bobby Grubb, Jim Dade and Jim Wells, because of injuries, Circleville high Tigers are being prepared this week to repel the invasion by the Washington C. H. Blue Lions, scheduled Friday night. Mader and Grubb were hurt in the Wilmington game, while Dade and Wells were injured at Grove City. . . . Whether the latter two will be able to play Friday is a problem. . . . Coach Roy Black is directing the attention of his boys toward playing a hard smashing and alert game. . . . The Washington boys have a speedy back in Bill Rudduck and a smasher at fullback in Curry, a first string tackle last year. . . . The Blue Lion record is not so hot, and neither is Circleville's for that matter since three games have been lost. . . .

And here's a plea to fathers of boys who have been doing their best to give Circleville a winner this year. . . . Next Friday night is being observed as Dads' Night, in addition to Homecoming. . . . It is your duty to be on the bench wearing your son's number when the first whistle blows. . . . It is rather disconcerting for a football player to see the other players' dads on the bench backing them up, and then know that his own dad is not there. . . . It's a duty you owe your son for doing a splendid job for his school. . . .

He lost his only game in 1941 and last year lost one of two games he appeared in without scoring a win.

In beating the Cards the first time in the last World Series, in the opening game, he allowed only seven hits and finished in front 4 to 2. In the clincher, he gave up 10 hits but made it a 2 to 0 home run, aided by Bill Dickey's homer with Charley Keller on base.

HOOSIER ACES INJURED IN WOLVERINE BATTLE

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Nov. 9.—The Michigan game left a heavy toll today among the Indiana Hoosiers. Four cripples, including their key offensive threat, Bob Hoernschmeyer, showed up for practice against Great Lakes next Saturday. The others are Capt. John Tavener, center; John Canady, a back, and J. C. Coffey, a guard.

WILLIAMS MOVES UP

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—Ike Williams, Trenton lightweight, moved a step closer today to a title match with Bob Montgomery after scoring a convincing third-round knockout over Johnny Hutchinson, Quaker City glover, before a record crowd of 8,000 at the arena.

NEW HYMNAL

BOSTON, — Familiar American hymns will be heard in the Rhineland when American soldiers in German prison camps get the 3,000 or more copies of the American Student Hymnal. The new hymnal is edited by Prof. H. Augustine Smith of Boston university and Mrs. Smith. There are several songs in the book printed in the original language in which they were sung.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—There has been some talk of Notre Dame playing Southern California in the annual Rose Bowl football game at Pasadena. It can now cease. In fact, it has ceased.

Overtures, or in any event, feelers of a sort have been extended to South Bend in this connection, we understand, and have met a polite though firm refusal by the padres who exercise a benign control over athletics at an institution where football flourishes as nowhere else in the world. NURSE SISTER KENNY

Sister Elizabeth Kenny, Australian nurse famed for her concept of treating infantile paralysis, will be the guest of "What's New?" show, Saturday at 6 p. m. over the Blue network. Jim Ameche will interview Sister Kenny from New York.

One of the most recent and great discoveries of the medical world is the Kenny Method of treating infantile paralysis. The nurse's story of the renowned nurse will soon be seen in motion pictures when Rosalind Russell appears in "Elizabeth Kenny." The film will go into production shortly.

A native of Warialda, Australia, Sister Kenny grew up in the "bush" country.

LUM AND ABNER

Lum and Abner, the two sophisticated of Pine Ridge, Arkansas, will be visitors to the Music Hall Thursday evening, at 8 p. m. over NBC. Bob Crosby will continue as guest-host while Bing is on a bonding tour for the Treasury Department.

When Bob was holding forth during Bing's summer vacation, the two small-town storekeepers dropped in to go over a movie script with him. Although they thought Charles Boyer would fit the part better than either of them, the promised to try out for the role. This may be audition night for them.

Bob will open this week's show with the Music Males and the

HEIDT OFFERS VARIETY

"I Still Care," composed by Frankie Carle, former pianist with Horace Heidt's orchestra, is featured on Heidt's "Treasure Chest" program on Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. over station WLW. Bob Mathews sings the chorus. The band opens the show with "Flying Marines," after which Donna Wood and Henry Russell present a duet arrangement of "Paper Doll." Other selections include "They're Either Too Young or Too Old," sung by Gloria Wood; "How Sweet You Are," a band selection; and "With a Song in My Heart," in a special arrangement featuring Henry Russell at the novachord, Fred Lowery whistling and the glee club, headed by Donna and her Don Juans.

QUENTIN REYNOLDS

The almost incredible story of Petrov, a Russian hero of the siege of Sevastopol, will be told by Quentin Reynolds and a dramatic cast, on "Salute to Youth" on Tuesday, November 16, at 6:30 p. m., over WLW. The tale, told to Reynolds by Boris Voyetikhov, famed Russian correspondent, demonstrates the small distinction between cowardice and heroism, as a boastful sailor nearly goes to pieces under fire, but rallies to redeem himself. Musically, the show features Raymond Paige's "Young Americans" orchestra in a medley from "Oklahoma," plus "Hold Everything" and "Missouri Waltz." Nadine Conner, Metropolitan Opera soprano, sings "Say a Prayer for the Boys Over There," and joins with the chorus in "Begin the Beguine."

Following their November 14 broadcast from the Halloran Hospital, Staten Island, New York, Phil Spitalny and his "Hour of Charm" girls head westward for a two week engagement at the Chicago Theatre. Their November 21 and 28 broadcasts originate on the stage of the theatre, with the December 5 show airing from the Chicago Stage Door Canteen.

Travis Wells, director of "The Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street," takes over the stop-watch on "Mr. and Mrs. North" for the November 10 broadcast, in the absence of S. James Andrews, who'll be in Miami handling the

NURSE SISTER KENNY

Sister Elizabeth Kenny, Australian nurse famed for her concept of treating infantile paralysis, will be the guest of "What's New?" show, Saturday at 6 p. m. over the Blue network. Jim Ameche will interview Sister Kenny from New York.

One of the most recent and great discoveries of the medical world is the Kenny Method of treating infantile paralysis. The nurse's story of the renowned nurse will soon be seen in motion pictures when Rosalind Russell appears in "Elizabeth Kenny." The film will go into production shortly.

A native of Warialda, Australia, Sister Kenny grew up in the "bush" country.

FACTORIES AFFECTED

Railroads Hauling Little Coal Due To Shortage At Mine Mouths

Cincinnati's coal situation became critical Tuesday when the long-promised arrival of cold weather found local dealers without supplies and without any definite hopes that their bins will soon be filled again.

Production was started Monday in many pits which had been out of operation since the mine strike was resumed over a week ago, but it will be some time before any of the coal being mined now reaches Cincinnati dealers.

Demands are growing each day, dealers point out, with many companies feeling the pinch of dwindling coal piles without seeing any relief in the very near future.

Families which had small supplies left from last Spring, or which had been fortunate enough to obtain a small amount of coal during the Summer, are clamoring again for coal, but there just isn't anything local dealers can do about it.

Dark Outlook

One dealer declared Tuesday that arrival of cold weather means that Lake Erie will soon be frozen over and that coal being shipped over the lakes to various northern districts will be diverted, some to retail channels throughout Ohio.

Norfolk and Western railroad has had only a few coal trains pass over its lines in the last few days, some of it when coal already on cars was released for shipment to industrial districts. None mined since the strike was called off has passed north through Cincinnati.

While the retail situation is desperate, local industrial plants are also reporting difficulties. None of them has been forced to cut operations yet because of shortages, but a continued labor difficulty might mean curtailed business.

Demand for coal throughout the nation has reached an all-time high and is continuing to increase.

Consumption Heavy

Consumption this year, as estimated by the Solid Fuels Administration, is figured at 600 million tons of bituminous and 65 million tons of anthracite. Of this, 130 million tons of bituminous and over 50 million tons of anthracite will be used for what is called "space heating," the heating of homes, schools, hospitals, office buildings and the like. War industry and electric power utilities take the great bulk of the remainder.

Office of Price Administration, which is watching the coal situation with an eye on possibility of rationing, said that production of coal has lagged for two major reasons. One is that the coal industry has lost almost 65,000 of its youngest, best-producing miners to the armed forces and to war plants; strikes last Spring cost 30,000,000 tons, and in the first week of November this year the loss of production because of the strike was 2,000,000 tons a day of bituminous and 230,000 tons a day of anthracite.

The lag in production cut the nation's stockpile of bituminous down to 75 million tons as of September 1, largely in the hands of industrial plants, retail dealers and in shipment.

FIRST "STICKING" SNOW OF SEASON HITS CITY

Cincinnati recorded its first "sticking" snow of the year at 5 a. m. Tuesday.

Much of the snow remained during the day. Still more snow is predicted for Tuesday night.

The temperature fell to 28 degrees Tuesday morning after reaching 68 Monday.

DEADLINE NEAR FOR CLAIMS ON CROP LOSSES

Pickaway county A. A. A. received instructions Tuesday from the state A. A. A. office concerning submitting statements in proof of loss under the 1943 crop insurance program.

The ruling as outlined by Elmer Kruse, state A. A. A. chief, said: "If loss is claimed, the insured shall submit a statement in proof of loss to the office of the county committee not later than 30 days after threshing, but in no event after November 15 unless such time is extended in writing by the corporation, or the period of insurance has been extended under the war shortage provision of the contract."

THIS IS THE ARMY DAY PROCLAIMED IN CINCINNATI

"This Is the Army" Day was proclaimed in Cincinnati Tuesday by Mayor Ben H. Gordon as Cincinnati persons prepared to help finance the Army Relief Fund with a contribution that may reach $1,800.

The Irving Berlin picture will be shown at the Grand theatre at 8:30 tonight at $3.30 and $2.20 a ticket, all proceeds being turned over to the Army Emergency Relief Fund.

Grand theatre management indicated during the day that a sell-out is expected. The committee headed by George Griffith has been working hard in an effort to sell every ticket and splendid cooperation has been received from business firms, industrial companies and individuals.

Kenneth Knece Draws 10 To 25 Year Sentence For Armed Robbery

Kenneth Knece, 30, of Jackson township, leader in a desperate county jail break 10 days ago, was sentenced Monday afternoon to serve 10 to 25 years in the Ohio penitentiary for armed robbery of Charles Aills, Harrison, O.

Knece was ordered to the prison by Judge Meeker Terwilliger after the prisoner informed his attorney, Kenneth Robbins, that he "might as well plead guilty and get it over." Knece had previously pleaded innocent of the grand jury indictment.

Aills was sleeping in his automobile on the Kingston pike when Knece and his younger brother, Harold, 17, who is now in county jail awaiting hearing in juvenile court on similar armed robbery charges, accosted him. Aills said about $25, his wrist watch and all his ration books and registration cards were taken from him.

Caught By Patrol A few days later the Knece brothers were caught at New Concord by highway patrolmen after the car they were driving overturned. Guernsey county officials held the brothers for several weeks intending to try them for carrying concealed weapons, but, after they had almost wrecked one floor of the Cambridge jail, they called Sheriff Charles Radcliff to come after them.

The jail break came October 30, the elder Knece enjoying freedom for about seven hours after Harold Dufore, held for auto theft, choked the sheriff as he was returning to the cell block. Dufore did not attempt to escape, but Knece and Charles Ray Boggs, also held for auto theft, ran. Boggs was caught by Charles Gray, sheriff's son-in-law. Knece being grabbed later in the day when hiding in deep grass on the Marfield land south of Circleville.

The three jail break principals were kept on bread and water diets for seven days. Knece, given food for the first time Saturday, looked a little weakened when he appeared before Judge Terwilliger.

Confesses Guilt After Attorney Robbins explained to the court that Knece wished to change his plea, the judge asked him if he had anything to say. Knece replying negatively with a shake of the head.

The judge decreed that none of the 10 to 25 years should be served in solitary confinement, but ordered the husky prisoner to serve his time at hard labor.

Knece has spent almost all of his adult life in Ohio penal institutions. He was sent to the Mansfield reformatory by Sheriff Radcliff after an auto theft. He stole another car after winning parole, and was captured again by the sheriff. Returned to the Ohio penitentiary, Knece was later sent to the London prison farm. He had escaped from that institution only a few days before he robbed Aills.

Judge Lemuel B. Weldon called Harold Knece before him Wednesday morning. While the younger Knece is held for armed robbery, city police also have several bad check charges which can be pressed against him.

Marion Hanley Hurt In Unusual Accident Marion Hanley, North Pickaway street, is resting comfortably at his home after suffering painful injuries Sunday afternoon when he was thrown from a truck on the Ringgold pike. Mr. Hanley was riding with his son-in-law, Arthur Steele, hauling household furniture from the former Hanley home in Washington township to his newly-purchased home on Pickaway street.

The accident happened when wind caught mattresses being carried on the truck. Mr. Hanley being thrown into the road when he tried to hold the mattresses on the truck.

objectives was to cut ground from under Willkie.

"Do you want to be national chairman again?" a Republican jokingly inquired of Hamilton.

"No, that's farthest from my mind," replied Hamilton. "My main interest at the moment is licking this guy Willkie."

Hamilton then proceeded to un-cork what one of his listeners described as a few "unprintable remarks" concerning Willkie's qualifications, saying that the 1940 GOP nominee was about the last man he would want to see heading the ticket in 1944.

While Hamilton was warming to his subject—the pow-wow was held in a corridor off of the house floor—who should pass by but Representative Joe Martin of Mass., whom Willkie appointed to succeed Hamilton during the 1940 campaign.

Hamilton rushed over to shake hands.

"Joe, I want to talk to you," he said.

"Sure, John," replied Martin. "Drop by after we adjourn today."

But John never dropped in.

POLITICAL CHAFF

Jim Farley was right after all about Kentucky. He told GOP friends that it offered the best bet to lick FDR if they had any political money to invest. Either Jim hasn't lost his political acumen or it was GOP money which did it—or both. . . . Some politicians thought the President could have been more politically-minded when he described himself as a "tree-grower" rather than a "farmer" in voting at Hyde Park. To them it looked as if he had deserted the farmers.

Herbert Hoover, Tom Dewey and Henry Taylor (author of "Men in Motion") had a secret confab recently about the GOP's future. . . . New Jersey's ex-Gov. Moore was blazing mad at New Jersey's present Gov. Charles Edison for not mentioning Democratic candidate Murphy in a climax campaign speech. New Jersey Dems complain that Edison, son of the famous inventor, is no real Democrat. . . . At a Kiwanis club luncheon one day after elections, Jim Farley took off the gloves, blasted his one-time administration with everything he had.

Williamson BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY

James Clifford Williamson, 25, of Williamson, W. Va., already a one-time loser in an automobile theft case, was bound to the grand jury Monday afternoon by Mayor Ben H. Gordon under $1,000 bond on charges of theft of the car of Lewis Cook, Stoutsville. The car was taken from the parking lot at the Pickaway Dairy Co. where Cook is employed.

Williamson was caught by state highway patrolmen near Haverhill in the Portsmouth district. A large amount of technical equipment used in dairy test, in addition to a valuable camera, remained intact in the automobile when it was recovered.

Mayor Gordon said that Williamson told him he would plead "not guilty by reason of insanity." Chief W. F. McCrady said Williamson had admitted serving three years previously in a penal institution.

COUNTY SCHOOL BUSES ALL GET CLEAN SLATES

Pickaway county's 72 school buses were given clean slates Tuesday in a report submitted to Superintendent George D. McDowell by state highway patrolmen who conducted examinations of the pupil carriers during the last week.

Mr. McDowell said that in some instances patrolmen recommended minor adjustments, but that in all the report submitted showed that the county's youngsters are being conveyed to their schools then back home in safe vehicles.

Patrolmen check school buses each year shortly after classes open so that any bus which is not regarded as safe for transport of children may be taken off a route before there is any chance for an accident.

30 YOUTHS TO TAKE COURSE IN FIRST AID

Thirty Circleville youths, some of them members of the Hi-Y club and others who are registered under Civilian Defense as messengers, will start a junior Red Cross First Aid course Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in Circleville high school.

The group of youths, all of whom will be available for messenger service under Civilian Defense, will be under supervision of Tom Armstrong of the high school.

The course will be under direction of Mrs. G. Guy Campbell, and it will cover a 15-hour period, the usual time taken for Junior courses.

Mrs. Campbell has just completed a standard class for adults at the courthouse, 18 women receiving their first instruction in First Aid.

It requires 12 to 15 years to educate a novice in the mysteries of the profession of tapestry weaving on the finer tapestries.

STOVE SEEKERS URGED TO FILE NEW PETITIONS

Householders who have been unable to obtain ration certificates to purchase stoves burning coal or wood in the past because the month's supply may have been exhausted are urged by the Pickaway county War Price and Rationing board to apply again for a certificate.

The board also urged other persons needing stoves who believe they meet eligibility requirements to apply so that it might decide whether a certificate may be issued.

The board said that because of a large increase this month in the quota of stove purchase certificates which the board may issue it feels certain that any person eligible for a coal or wood heating stove will be granted a certificate which will enable them to buy one. Ration certificates are issued to applicants who show that they have no usable stove at present and that one is needed to heat essential living or working space or is needed for cooking. They are also available to those who need a stove to replace one worn beyond repair, or to persons who have not within 60 days disposed of a stove which could have been used for the purpose, except for good cause.

Railroads Hauling Little Coal Due To Shortage At Mine Mouths

Circleville's coal situation became critical Tuesday when the long-promised arrival of cold weather found local dealers without supplies and without any definite hopes that their bins will soon be filled again.

Production was started Monday in many pits which had been out of operation since the mine strike was resumed over a week ago, but it will be some time before any of the coal being mined now reaches Circleville dealers.

Demand is growing each day, dealers point out, with many persons feeling the pinch of dwindling coal piles without seeing any relief in the very near future.

Families which had small supplies left from last Spring, or which had been fortunate enough to obtain a small amount of coal during the Summer, are clamoring again for coal, but there isn't anything local dealers can do about it.

Dark Outlook

One dealer declared Tuesday that arrival of cold weather means that Lake Erie will soon be frozen over and that coal being shipped over the lakes to various northern districts will be diverted, some to retail channels throughout Ohio.

Norfolk and Western railroad has had only a few coal trains pass over its lines in the last few days, some of it when coal already on cars was released for shipment to industrial districts. None mined since the strike was called off has passed north through Circleville.

While the retail situation is desperate, local industrial plants are also reporting difficulties. None of them has been forced to cut operations yet because of shortages, but a continued labor difficulty might mean curtailed business.

Demand for coal throughout the nation has reached an all-time high and is continuing to increase.

Consumption Heavy

Consumption this year, as estimated by the Solid Fuels Administration, is figured at 600 million tons of bituminous and 65 million of anthracite. Of this, 130 million tons of bituminous and over 50 millions of anthracite will be used for what is called "space heating"; the heating of homes, schools, hospitals, office buildings and the like. War industry and electric power utilities take the great bulk of the remainder.

Office of Price Administration, which is watching the coal situation with an eye on possibility of rationing, said that production of coal has lagged for two major reasons. One is that the coal industry has lost almost 65,000 of its youngest, best-producing miners to the armed forces and to war plants; strikes last Spring cost 30,000,000 tons, and in the first week of November this year the loss of production because of the strike was 2,000,000 tons a day of bituminous and 230,000 tons a day of anthracite.

The lag in production cut the nation's stockpile of bituminous down to 75 million tons as of September 1, largely in the hands of industrial plants, retail dealers and in shipment.

FIRST "STICKING" SNOW OF SEASON HITS CITY

Circleville recorded its first "sticking" snow of the year at 5 a. m. Tuesday.

Much of the snow remained during the day. Still more snow is predicted for Tuesday night.

The temperature fell to 28 degrees Tuesday morning after reaching 68 Monday.

DEADLINE NEAR FOR CLAIMS ON CROP LOSSES

Pickaway county A. A. A. received instructions Tuesday from the state A. A. A. office concerning submitting statements in proof of loss under the 1943 crop insurance program.

The ruling as outlined by Elmer Kruse, state A. A. A. chief, said: "If loss is claimed, the insured shall submit a statement in proof of loss to the office of the county committee not later than 30 days after threshing, but in no event after November 15 unless such time is extended in writing by the corporation, or the period of insurance has been extended under the war shortage provision of the contract."

THIS IS THE ARMY DAY PROCLAIMED IN CIRCLEVILLE

"This Is the Army" Day was proclaimed in Circleville Tuesday by Mayor Ben H. Gordon as Circleville persons prepared to help finance the Army Relief Fund with a contribution that may reach $1,800.

The Irving Berlin picture will be shown at the Grand theatre at 8:30 tonight at $3.30 and $2.20 a ticket, all proceeds being turned over to the Army Emergency Relief Fund.

Grand theatre management indicated during the day that a sell-out is expected. The committee headed by George Griffith has been working hard in an effort to sell every ticket and splendid cooperation has been received from business firms, industrial companies and individuals.

Kenneth Knece Draws 10 To 25 Year Sentence For Armed Robbery

Kenneth Knece, 30, of Jackson township, leader in a desperate county jail break 10 days ago, was sentenced Monday afternoon to serve 10 to 25 years in the Ohio penitentiary for armed robbery of Charles Aills, Harrison, O.

Knece was ordered to the prison by Judge Meeker Terwilliger after the prisoner informed his attorney, Kenneth Robbins, that he "might as well plead guilty and get it over." Knece had previously pleaded innocent of the grand jury indictment.

Aills was sleeping in his automobile on the Kingston pike when Knece and his younger brother, Harold, 17, who is now in county jail awaiting hearing in juvenile court on similar armed robbery charges, accosted him. Aills said about $25, his wrist watch and all his ration books and registration cards were taken from him.

Caught By Patrol A few days later the Knece brothers were caught at New Concord by highway patrolmen after the car they were driving overturned. Guernsey county officials held the brothers for several weeks intending to try them for carrying concealed weapons, but, after they had almost wrecked one floor of the Cambridge jail, they called Sheriff Charles Radcliff to come after them.

The jail break came October 30, the elder Knece enjoying freedom for about seven hours after Harold Dufore, held for auto theft, choked the sheriff as he was returning to the cell block. Dufore did not attempt to escape, but Knece and Charles Ray Boggs, also held for auto theft, ran. Boggs was caught by Charles Gray, sheriff's son-in-law, Knece being grabbed later in the day when hiding in deep grass on the Marfield land south of Circleville.

The three jail break principals were kept on bread and water diets for seven days. Knece, given food for the first time Saturday, looked a little weakened when he appeared before Judge Terwilliger.

Confesses Guilt After Attorney Robbins explained to the court that Knece wished to change his plea, the judge asked him if he had anything to say, Knece replying negatively with a shake of the head.

The judge decreed that none of the 10 to 25 years should be served in solitary confinement, but ordered the husky prisoner to serve his time at hard labor.

Knece has spent almost all of his adult life in Ohio penal institutions. He was sent to the Mansfield reformatory by Sheriff Radcliff after an auto theft. He stole another car after winning parole, and was captured again by the sheriff. Returned to the Ohio penitentiary, Knece was later sent to the London prison farm. He had escaped from that institution only a few days before he robbed Aills.

Judge Lemuel B. Weldon called Harold Knece before him Wednesday morning. While the younger Knece is held for armed robbery, city police also have several bad check charges which can be pressed against him.

Marion Hanley Hurt in Unusual Accident Marion Hanley, North Pickaway street, is resting comfortably at his home after suffering painful injuries Sunday afternoon when he was thrown from a truck on the Ringgold pike. Mr. Hanley was riding with his son-in-law, Arthur Steele, hauling household furniture from the former Hanley home in Washington township to his newly-purchased home on Pickaway street.

The accident happened when wind caught mattresses being carried on the truck. Mr. Hanley being thrown into the road when he tried to hold the mattresses on the truck.

Mr. Hanley was given treatment for head cuts and body bruises.

Minor surgery and is expected home Wednesday.

Roy Hedges, Laurelville, was removed home Monday from Berger hospital where he had been a medical patient.

objectives was to cut ground from under Willkie. "Do you want to be national chairman again?" a Republican jokingly inquired of Hamilton. "No, that's farthest from my mind," replied Hamilton. "My main interest at the moment is licking this guy Willkie."

Hamilton then proceeded to uncover what one of his listeners described as a few "unprintable remarks" concerning Willkie's qualifications, saying that the 1940 GOP nominee was about the last man he would want to see heading the ticket in 1944.

While Hamilton was warning to his subject—the pow-wow was held in a corridor off of the house floor—who should pass by but Representative Joe Martin of Mass., whom Willkie appointed to succeed Hamilton during the 1940 campaign.

Hamilton rushed over to shake hands. "Joe, I want to talk to you," he said. "Sure, John," replied Martin. "Drop by after we adjourn today." But John never dropped in.

POLITICAL CHAFF

Jim Farley was right after all about Kentucky. He told GOP friends that it offered the best bet to lick FDR if they had any political money to invest. Either Jim hasn't lost his political acumen or it was GOP money which did it—or both. . . . Some politicians thought the President could have been more politically-minded when he described himself as a "tree-grower" rather than a "farmer" in voting at Hyde Park. To them it looked as if he had deserted the farmers. . . . Herbert Hoover, Tom Dewey and Henry Taylor (author of "Men In Motion") had a secret confab recently about the GOP's future. . . . New Jersey Dems complain that Edison, son of the famous inventor, is no real Democrat. . . . At a Kiwanis club luncheon one day after elections, Jim Farley took off the gloves, blasted his one-time administration with everything he had.

WILLIAMSON BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY

James Clifford Williamson, 25, of Williamson, W. Va., already a one-time loser in an automobile theft case, was bound to the grand jury Monday afternoon by Mayor Ben H. Gordon under $1,000 bond on charges of theft of the car of Lewis Cook, Stoutsville. The car was taken from the parking lot at the Pickaway Dairy Co. where Cook is employed.

Williamson was caught by state highway patrolmen near Haverhill in the Portsmouth district. A large amount of technical equipment used in dairy test, in addition to a valuable camera, remained intact in the automobile when it was recovered.

Mayor Gordon said that Williamson told him he would plead "not guilty by reason of insanity." Chief W. F. McCrady said Williamson had admitted serving three years previously in a penal institution.

COUNTY SCHOOL BUSES ALL GET CLEAN SLATES

Pickaway county's 72 school buses were given clean slates Tuesday in a report submitted to Superintendent George D. McDowell by state highway patrolmen who conducted examinations of the pupil carriers during the last week.

Mr. McDowell said that in some instances patrolmen recommended minor adjustments, but that all in all the report submitted showed that the county's youngsters are being conveyed to their schools then back home in safe vehicles. Patrolmen check school buses each year shortly after classes open so that any bus which is not regarded as safe for transport of children may be taken off a route before there is any chance for an accident.

30 YOUTHS TO TAKE COURSE IN FIRST AID

Thirty Circleville youths, some of them members of the Hi-Y club and others who are registered under Civilian Defense as messengers, will start a junior Red Cross First Aid course Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in Circleville high school.

The group of youths, all of whom will be available for messenger service under Civilian Defense, will be under supervision of Tom Armstrong of the high school.

The course will be under direction of Mrs. G. Guy Campbell, and it will cover a 15-hour period, the usual time taken for Junior courses.

Mrs. Campbell has just completed a standard class for adults at the courthouse, 18 women receiving their first instruction in First Aid.

It requires 12 to 15 years to educate a novice in the mysteries of the profession of tapestry weaving on the finer tapestries.

STOVE SEEKERS URGED TO FILE NEW PETITIONS

Householders who have been unable to obtain ration certificates to purchase stoves burning coal or wood in the past because the month's supply may have been exhausted are urged by the Pickaway county War Price and Rationing board to apply again for a certificate.

The board also urged other persons needing stoves who believe they meet eligibility requirements to apply so that it might decide whether a certificate may be issued. The board said that because of a large increase this month in the quota of stove purchase certificates which the board may issue it feels certain that any person eligible for a coal or wood heating stove will be granted a certificate which will enable them to buy one. Ration certificates are issued to applicants who show that they have no usable stove at present and that one is needed to heat essential living or working space or is needed for cooking. They are also available to those who need a stove to replace one worn beyond repair, or to persons who have not within 60 days disposed of a stove which could have been used for the purpose, except for good cause.
